

'They Grabbed While Grabbing Was Good'

Inability to see the other person's point of view has caused innumerable wars and killed many millions of people, Dr. Brock Chisholm told members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia at their annual meeting Thursday night.

"This intolerance would continue to produce wars but for the fact we are now threatened with annihilation of the whole human race," Dr. Chisholm said.

"Ours is the first generation that has held veto power over the fate of mankind. It is no longer possible for one group of humanity to survive at the expense of another."

"Those days are gone forever, and selfish people don't like it at all. They would like to protect their own particular group regardless of what happens to the rest of the world."

Dr. Chisholm said Canadians and Americans are fortunate in having "nice aggressive ancestors who grabbed while the grabbing was good."

He said this had prompted many people abroad to ask why Canadians and Americans glorified the people who killed the most Indians in their movies and comic strips.

"They cannot understand why we make heroes of people who kill, and frankly I do not understand it myself."

Dr. Chisholm said the selfishness of national and racial groups could be attributed to the "attitudes" inculcated by parents and teachers.

"If we had been born in another kind of culture, or even in the house next door, we might have had an entirely different set of basic attitudes."

"But most people do not even consider changing the attitudes into which they have been born. The most they achieve are a few minor readjustments in some of their less important prejudices."

Dr. Chisholm spoke of taboos set up by orthodoxy which create "blind spots" in the human mind.

"Human beings can no longer afford to remain creatures of accident... nor can they accept the attitudes of their parents."

"There is nothing more absurd than to say 'we believe in something because our parents believed in it. We must be prepared to do much more thinking than our predecessors have done.'"

Dr. Chisholm said freedom of imagination is essential to health and he suggested this freedom be applied to the world's food problem.

"At present we have no system of distributing food on a world-wide scale," he said. "More than half of the world's people are suffering from malnutrition and this proportion is increasing."

"We are capable of producing much more food than we are producing, but we are not taking any vital steps in that direction."

"There is no foreseeable arrangement for providing enough food to feed the world's population of 40 years hence, unless science provides the answer."

Dr. Chisholm suggested that countries which had an abundance of food should be prepared to give, perhaps, one-fifth to the under-nourished countries.

"We may have to do that if the human race is to survive," he said.

A SIGN OF SETTLEMENT?

tor in steel strike. They met amid rumors that settlement was possible after new union offer. (AP Photo.)

New Steel Strike Offer May Settle Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Steelworkers' Union today made a new strike-settlement proposal to the industry. The industry said it would be studied at the first session of new direct negotiations, undertaken at government prodding.

This meeting broke up after about an hour and 45 minutes. David J. McDonald, union president, confirmed at that time reports of a new union proposal. He declined to give its details.

The negotiators will meet again at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

BOTH TRYING

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said that meantime the union proposal would be studied.

"Both sides," Cooper said, "are endeavoring to reach an agreement to settle this issue by collective bargaining."

Although McDonald would not give details, well-placed sources said that the union

FRANCE STALLS SUMMIT MEET

LONDON (UPI)—French President Charles de Gaulle is stalling on an East-West summit conference, possibly until France explodes its first atomic bomb and becomes a nuclear power with the other three great powers, an authoritative British source said today.

The United States and Britain have agreed that they should propose a summit meeting with Russia early in December and probably in Geneva, according to the informant. But France is holding up a joint western reply to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's summit overtures, he said.

NEWS BEEP-NIKS FROM OUTER SPACE

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States plans to launch a satellite next month designed to range far out in space and follow an orbit around the sun close to the path of the planet Venus, the magazine Missiles and Rockets reported today.

The unconfirmed report said: "If successful, the... payload will be the first to send back information from any great distance of solar space."

MOSCOW (UPI)—The names of Russia's first three prospective riders to the moon were revealed today. The magazines "Soviet Union" and "Ogonok" had articles dealing with simulated space flights in which the blood of prospective astronauts was made to "boil."

Named as Russia's first astronauts were Ivan Kachur, Alexei Grachev and Alexei Belokonev. The magazines also told how a dog whose blood was "boiled" in a pressure chamber came out of the experiment so well he immediately and happily chomped away at a sausage.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here today.

The mannequin would be filled with tissue-equivalent fluid that would absorb as much radiation as a human body.

FRENCH LOVER AT WORK

Boeing 707, Esther His Latest Idols

PARIS (AP)—Joseph Davis is a 34-year-old French laborer with two great loves—airplanes and actresses. For years he has been trying to board transatlantic planes for the thrill of the trip and to hitch a ride toward Hollywood and his current flame.

Once he managed to stay hidden aboard an Air France Constellation until it reached Shannon Airport, in Ireland. He was on his way to see Rita Hayworth.

David's target now is the Boeing 707 jet.

"What a plane," he said as he Bourget Airport workers pulled him out of one Thursday.

"Who were you going to see this time?" inquired an airport guard.

"Esther Williams," Davis murmured. "I love her."

Ottawa To Cut Borrowing

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming told the provinces today the federal government will try to help them find needed capital by cutting down its own borrowing.

Fleming said he thought the best way to help the provinces was to strengthen federal credit through borrowing less. He said bond prices dropped when the chartered banks sold federal bonds to get money for loans.

He said, however, the federal government needs only 300 million dollars between now and the end of the fiscal year, March 31, to meet maturing loans. He also reiterated that the federal government will try to cut its deficit in next spring's budget.

The minister denied there was lack of confidence in the government's financing. He said the "acid test" was the fact the public's holdings of federal government bonds increased by two billion dollars during the past year.

Fleming made his statements to newsmen at a recess in the federal-provincial treasurers' conference. The conference ended this afternoon. There was no official communique.

He said he was not pessimistic about the present borrowing difficulties. He said lack of capital was general through the west, but that this had not interfered with economic expansion.

He added that the government will do all it can to create a favorable market for foreign investment.

Fleming also had some answers for provincial suggestions on how the provinces could raise more money.

He turned down an Ontario request that the $20,000 ceiling on the value of Canada Savings Bonds held by any one person be lowered to make more money available for provincial borrowing. He said the federal government will have to borrow less in the open market if its bond campaign is a success.

ALL REJECTED

He also rejected a proposal that the Bank of Canada buy provincial bonds much as it does federal bonds. He said the central bank would have to sell some of its own bonds to get the money to do this.

He said none of the provincial proposals were accepted. Others included requests for sales tax exemptions on provincial purchases, the purchase of provincial bonds by federal government bond-holding agencies—like the unemployment insurance fund—and tax-free coupons on provincial bonds.

There was no proposal presented for a lottery system similar to that in Great Britain. He said however, this scheme was mentioned in background papers on money-raising methods used in other countries.

Seems th' British Labor Party can't decide whether t' socialize industry or not. But thet's goin' t' be a purely academic question fer th' next five years.

With all this talk o' movin' th' College-mebbe they ought t' move th' Chamber o' Commerce too.

PREMIER TO BOOST B.C.

WALL ST. GETS 'MESSAGE'

BY VICTOR MACKIE

OTTAWA—Premier W. A. C. Bennett next week will visit the big financial houses in New York, Boston and Chicago, but he has no plans for a visit to England—contrary to reports circulating in Victoria.

Premier Bennett told The Times today that he will visit the big financial houses not with the idea of borrowing money, but to outline for the financiers the big developments now under way and planned in British Columbia.

"We are not going to these

people to borrow money. We are going to explain the big developments and interpret them to give these people the picture," the premier said.

It is likely that the premier will be making the tour to facilitate the obtaining of funds in the future by the Wenner-Gren interests. Next year they are expected to start raising the estimated $600,000,000 required for their Peace River power project. "I want to explain," said Mr. Bennett, "the great developments going ahead in B.C., especially the great new phase starting in the 1960s."

FEARLESS, PINT-SIZED JUNGLE WAR HERO DIES

LONDON (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. Thomas Wynford Rees, the fearless "little man" of the British Army who beat the Japanese at their own game in Burma's jungles, died here Thursday night.

The five-foot-three commander of the 19th Indian Division won a colorful place in military history for his part in the capture of Mandalay. The dynamic, fearless Welshman became a legend in the grim hand-to-hand fighting in Burma.

Rees won the Distinguished Service Order in the First World War for capturing an escaping Turkish battery in Syria single-handed.

We Won't Scrap Jets—Pearkes

By PETE LOUDON

There are no "immediate" plans for replacement of Canada's nine CF-100 squadrons with other aircraft or some form of missile, Defence Minister George R. Pearkes said here today.

At the same time he noted, "the defence picture is continually changing and there can be nothing static."

The statement, made on his arrival at Empress Hotel this morning, did not appear to be an outright denial of speculation at Ottawa Thursday that the RCAF "front line" interceptors would be progressively scrapped and replaced by ground-to-air missiles.

The minister said, "We plan to keep up to date without undue demands on the people." He noted one of the CF-100 squadrons is stationed at Comox, on Vancouver Island.

The defence minister, who will speak at Doncaster School at 8 tonight, scoffed at fears expressed here recently by national Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, that new Soviet nuclear-powered submarines have made Canada's new destroyer escorts obsolete.

"The navies of the world believe it is essential to have surface ships as well as submarines for the detection of submarines," he said. "Nuclear subs at present are fabulously expensive. We've got to think carefully before we go into nuclear subs."

The minister was to meet Mayor Percy Scurr and other officials of the city of Vancouver today. He will also meet with representatives of the Vancouver Convention Bureau and the Vancouver Chamber of Commerce.

They seek award of new shipping contracts here.

50-Year Plan for Both Areas

By JOHN MIKA

A proposed $3,000,000 building program will put a new library, science building, and power plant on Victoria College's Mount Tolmie site, with full support of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Decision was taken today by a special chamber executive meeting, ending two years of sniping at the site by a chamber subcommittee.

Only rider attached to the support is a "strong request" that the college council change the institution's name to the University of British Columbia at Victoria (Victoria College).

"I am very pleased with the chamber's endorsement of our decision to start an immediate building program on the present site," said Judge J. B. Clearhue, council chairman, after announcement of the decision.

Judge Clearhue and five other members of the council addressed the chamber's 25-man executive at a private meeting in the Empress Hotel, reaffirming their decision to develop the Mount Tolmie site rather than immediately relocating the campus on the recently-purchased Gordon Head site.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

The council members showed the chamber executive a 50-year plan "for a university at Victoria," which will see eventual development of both sites.

A public campaign for $1,500,000 will be launched after the Christmas holiday to add new buildings to the 50-acre Mount Tolmie campus immediately. The buildings will be needed for third and fourth-year enrolment in the 1961-62 college year.

Senator Escapes in Chase With Carload of Gunmen

FRANCOIS MITTERAND ... killer commandos

PARIS (Reuters)—A French senator flattened in the shadows of a Paris garden early today as machine-gun bullets ripped into his car at the end of a desperate flight through the silent streets of the capital.

The attack came shortly after a former government spokesman in Algeria warned that "killer commandos" have marked down certain government figures for assassination.

The senator, 42-year-old Francois Mitterand, a leftist Radical, said he was pursued by a car-load of gunmen as he drove home from a restaurant in the Latin Quarter on the left bank of the Seine.

He dodged through a network of side streets and then roared at top speed down near-deserted Boulevard St.

Michel, but the pursuing car continued to close the gap.

Mitterand, a former justice minister, braked hard and skidded into a street leading to the famed Observatory Gardens. He abandoned his car and vaulted a yard-high fence to take cover in the gardens in the shadows of some bushes.

The pursuing car swept around the corner seconds later, fired a burst of machine-gun bullets at Mitterand's car and roared off.

(From Times News Services)

LONDON (AP)—Jayne Mansfield is going to dye her hair jet black to star in a movie.

"A dream has come true," said the platinum blonde actress Thursday. "That dream is to try to put the serious side of me across."

"This new film is a real challenge. It's even called 'The Challenge'."

LONDON—Princess Margaret danced happily till well past midnight this morning in her first public appearance since the engagement of her former suitor, Peter Townsend.

The princess attended a dinner dance of a regiment of which she is honorary colonel. She danced nearly every dance and was obviously enjoying herself, other guests said.

MONTREAL—Kristian Rasmussen, an in-law to the Rockefeller clan who "worked" for his passage as an able seaman, arrived here today aboard the Norwegian freighter Sunpolyna.

Rasmussen, 67-year-old craggy-faced father of Marie Anne-Rasmussen, who married Steven Rockefeller, left here shortly before noon for a leisurely motor trip to New York and an indefinite visit with his North American relatives.

LOS ANGELES—Ronnie Burns, actor son of George Burns and Gracie Allen, is one of the defendants in a $56,000 damage suit brought on by a restaurant fracas.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kavanaugh of Beverly Hills charged in filing the action Thursday that Burns was "intoxicated, belligerent and vicious" during an incident at a Beverly Hills cafe Sept. 30.

The Kavanaughs said Burns and his two companions, occupying an adjacent table in the cafe, assaulted them without provocation. Kavanaugh seeks $10,000 for head and body injuries. His wife asks $46,000, charging that her face was permanently scarred, her hands and fingers bruised and her fur stole and dress damaged.

TOKYO—The 7,034 voters in the northern Japanese village of Tamura will have to do more than flip a coin if they are undecided on whom to vote for in the election for mayor this Sunday.

There are 938 candidates for the job. There would have been 932, but the local election commission disqualified 14 because their papers were not in order.

Some of the candidates cannot even count on their relatives to vote for them. In one family, a son is running against his father, mother, grandfather and grandmother.

DUBLIN—Film actor Barry Fitzgerald was reported out of danger but still seriously ill today following a brain operation in a Dublin hospital.

A cautiously worded hospital statement said the 72-year-old star's condition was "as expected," and that he "was not now in danger."

COLLEGE

Later building programs will add faculty buildings, a gymnasium, and field houses on the 120-acre Gordon Head campus.

SUPPORTS DRIVE

The chamber executive, after an hour-long discussion in private with its university sub-committee, passed a resolution which said:

"The Victoria Chamber of Commerce pledges its support to the drive for funds for building purposes to be launched by Victoria College early in 1960, and approves the action of Victoria College Council in legally securing the 120-acre site at Gordon Head in perpetuity so that no sale of any part of the property can be made."

LEGAL NAME CHANGE

"That a strong request be made... to the Victoria College Council to effect a legal change of name to the University of B.C. at Victoria (Victoria College)."

The Mount Tolmie site has been opposed in favor of the Gordon Head site for immediate development by the chamber's university sub-committee. This opposition finally over-ruled by the chamber executive because, as several put it, "building a university at Victoria is the main thing."

A prepared statement by the college council said the need for development of full university facilities is immediate. Pointing out that present enrollment now has passed the 1,000-student mark, it said delay adding new facilities should not be allowed.

THREE CHOICES

"There were three solutions to consider:

"1. Abandon the present Lansdowne site and rebuild in entirety at Gordon Head.

"2. Add to the present buildings on the Lansdowne site.

"3. Develop both areas, according to a long-range plan."

Noting that there were pros and cons for all three possibilities, the council chose the third course because "you cut your suit according to the cloth."

Along with the $1,500,000 campaign target, the council

(See Page 15)

WINNIPEG (CP)—Six Americans and their guide who have been stranded in northern Manitoba since last weekend were located today by an RCMP aircraft.

Supplies were dropped to the party and a helicopter was to make two trips today to bring them out. They were stranded at Poplar Point Lake, about 45 miles southeast of The Pas. The Pas is 314 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

They have been identified as Russell, Scott, his wife, Jean, and son Jerry, Dr. William Alexander, Peter Mitchell and Jack Minella, all of Iron Mountain, Mich. The guide is Elie Desjarlais of The Pas.

offer was for a 21-cent-an-hour package during a two-year contract period.

It would provide for increased insurance, pension and supplementary unemployment benefits during the first year of the agreement, according to these reports, and a wage increase in the second year. Pre-strike wages averaged $3.11 an hour.

KAISER TO AGREE?

There were unconfirmed reports that Kaiser Steel Corporation was near agreement with the union to accept this proposal. If so, it would crack the industry's solid front.

In response to inquiries about this chairman of the board Edgar Kaiser issued a statement saying Kaiser Steel Corporation has no written or verbal agreement or any commitment to enter into an agreement with the steel workers.

FRONT WOULD CRACK

Kaiser is one of the 12 big steel companies banded together in bargaining with the union.

The industry was reported striving to keep Kaiser in line to continue resistance to union demands.

There were rumors that several others of the 12 steel companies were also dicker with the union on settlement proposals. Mentioned in these rumors were Jones and Laughlin and Wheeling Steel Company.

LAOS SAYS REDS PLAYED 'HIDE AND SEEK' GAME

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The ambassador from Laos said Thursday a United Nations fact-finding mission to his rebellion-torn country was faced with a tough task in finding clear evidence of outside Communist influence there.

Ambassador Sisouk Na Chanpassak insisted, however, that his country is the victim of Communist aggression from neighboring North Viet Nam and Red China.

Chanpassak called a press conference and read a statement stressing that Communist guerrilla forces had played a "hide and seek" game after the UN Security Council fact-finding sub-committee arrived.

RED FEATHER WORK FREE

No Commission For Canvassers

Canvassers for Greater Victoria Community Chest do not receive any commission.

Chest officials emphasized this point today as an army of 1,700 volunteers continued their residential canvass of homes from Sooke to Sidney and all over the Victoria area.

They have raised $1,200 so far towards their $80,000 target in the residential canvass. Overall objective for the drive is $325,000.

"A number of our volunteers—the men and women who go from door to door—have been asked what commission they get," a Chest official said.

"This is unfair and unkind since all our canvassers are working on a strictly volunteer basis. Some people seem reluctant to believe that anyone does anything for nothing."

FIFTH LIGHT NEXT

Total returns in the Chest campaign topped $107,000 today. When the total reaches $125,000, a fifth bulb will be lit on the big Red Feather chart outside the Bank of Montreal at Yates and Douglas.

It is hoped the fifth light will go up late today or Monday. When all 13 bulbs have been lit the target of $325,000 will have been reached.

Employees of 15 Victoria firms have so far responded 100 per cent with every employee giving one day's pay.

"We are tremendously encouraged by the splendid response from city employees," campaign chairman Eric Mallett said.

Meantime, officials are pinning their hopes on an Irish Sweepstakes ticket, made out to the Community Chest, for the running of the Cambridge-shire horse race in England Oct. 28.

Top prize in the race is about $140,000 and this is the third year running that the Chest has been presented with a sweep ticket.

'BETTER CARE FOR THE SICK'

(From Duncan Bureau)

King's Daughters' Hospital has been granted provisional accreditation by the Canadian Council of Hospital Accreditation in Toronto, K. F. Noton, hospital administrator, disclosed this week.

Mr. Noton said the step indicated the hospital board here had overcome the effect of many restricted facilities.

H. B. Mathews, chairman of the hospital board, has said that accreditation means "better care for the sick."

PAT BAY ANSWERS CHARGE

Emergency Gear Adequate

Patricia Bay Airport has sufficient equipment to deal with crash and fire emergencies in the event of an airliner crashing on its runways, Jack Knowland, airport manager of Patricia Bay, said Thursday.

He made the remark after the Canadian Airline Pilots Association charged that emergency equipment at Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal airports was inadequate to cope with a major airliner crash.

Mr. Knowland said the equipment at Patricia Bay was adequate to cope with crashes of the type of airliners now using the airport.

Equipment included two special crash tenders and two regular fire engines, while crews were equipped with asbestos heat resistant suits in case of fire, he said.

He said the Royal Canadian

Old Friend and a Bottle Escort Flynn's $25 Casket

VANCOUVER (CP)—An old friend and a bottle by his side, Errol Flynn sets out on his last journey tonight—in a $25 casket in a railway baggage car.

Stunt man Buster Wiles will accompany the movie star's body on a train leaving here for Los Angeles at 6:35 p.m.

"I'm going to spend part of the time in the baggage car with Errol and have a few drinks," Wiles said today. "He would have liked that."

Legal papers authorizing Wiles to take the swashbuckling film hero's body across the border were made out Thursday night, ending a dispute over funeral arrangements between Flynn's girl friend, Beverly Aadland, and his estranged wife, night club singer Pat Wymore.

Flynn, 50, died of a heart attack in a Vancouver apartment Wednesday night.

TYPICAL DISPUTE

Wiles, who came here to take charge of the funeral arrangements at the request of Miss Wymore's lawyer, felt his old friend would have enjoyed the dispute.

"Errol would have laughed and said: 'I can't even die without lawyers bothering me.'"

"He used to say: 'It's been tough today. I haven't got a single writ.'"

Miss Aadland, a Hollywood starlet who accompanied Flynn on most of his travels in his last two years, insisted Thursday that the funeral should take place at his ranch in Jamaica, where he had expressed a wish to be buried.

Miss Wymore, Flynn's third wife, said in Los Angeles she might arrange for memorial rites in Jamaica in addition to funeral services in Hollywood.

"OVER MY DEAD BODY"

Miss Aadland's stand that the burial would take place in any other place but Jamaica, only "over my dead body" was backed Thursday by Ronald Shedd, Flynn's agent, and George Caldwell, wealthy investment dealer with whom Flynn and Miss Aadland were staying here.

But the final decision was known shortly after noon Thursday when Miss Wymore's lawyer, Tom Call, said from Los Angeles in a telephone interview:

"The widow has complete discretion as to what to do with Mr. Flynn's body."

Mr. Caldwell said: "Errol hated Los Angeles. He didn't want to go back there. He told me just last week he hated it, and said he would like to be buried in Jamaica."

Meanwhile, as the argument went on, Flynn's body lay at a midtown funeral parlor, the doors locked against hundreds who flocked there for a last glimpse of the screen star.

Officials at the coroner's office said the body was "that of a tired old man—old before his time, and sick."

An autopsy by Dr. T. R. Harmon gave cause of death as "coronary thrombosis," also found fatty degeneration of the liver and infection of the lower intestine.

Said Miss Aadland: "I promised him if anything happened I would go ahead in the Flynn tradition..."

"He always said: 'No tears, break open a bottle and toast me in pink champagne.'"

"I have that yet to do—I can't do it yet."

STANLEY KNOWLES

IS RIFT BREWING

CCF Disturbed As MPs Critical Of Labor Party

OTTAWA (CP)—Criticism by two Ontario MPs have thrown a spotlight on uncertainty and apprehension among some CCF Party members over the movement toward a new political party.

However, the remarks in Hamilton of Douglas Fisher, CCF MP for Port Arthur, and Arnold Peters, CCF MP for Temiskaming, have not alarmed other party members here.

They say the Fisher-Peters outburst at the Ontario party's provincial convention illustrates that some CCF supporters are worried about the party's future, not that a serious split exists over the attempt by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress to explore the foundations of a new party of the left.

In his criticism at Hamilton, Mr. Fisher said there is no indication that the new party movement is getting strong support from labor. In fact, he said, there is antipathy to it among the union rank and file.

Not so, says Stanley Knowles, a vice-president of both the CCF and the CLC and chairman of the national committee working to establish the new party.

"Mr. Fisher apparently has not been keeping in touch with the union rank and file, and this is regrettable. There has seldom been a project so discussed at the grass roots of both the labor movement and the CCF."

Mr. Knowles says that from more than 200 seminars held to discuss the new party in the last 18 months he concludes that union support from the rank and file is increasing.

Frank Howard, CCF MP for Skeena, and Mr. Fisher's deskmate in Parliament, says seminars he's attended indicate the movement is generally acceptable and that there is no violent opposition that might split either the socialist or labor union movements.

He says the discussions have sparked new interest in political activity and have drawn into CCF ranks more labor union members in B.C., where they are especially welcome as the CCF prepares to fight a provincial election.

Big Increase in Support Claimed

Mr. Knowles says a marked increase in support is evident in Ontario as well as B.C. and in union circles in Quebec. Most of the provincial labor federations have endorsed the new party movement and all the provincial CCF sections have done so.

Carl Hamilton, national CCF secretary, says that from his discussions with CLC officers the union's leadership is more determined of success for the new party idea than when it first was broached publicly more than a year ago.

He says these men base their support on the experience of the discussion seminars at the local level and of the major conference of labor and CCF this summer in Winnipeg.

Mr. Knowles says it is significant that Mr. Fisher did not attend the Winnipeg meeting nor the Lakehead seminar.

Both Mr. Knowles and Mr. Hamilton admit readily that there is uncertainty and apprehension among CCF Party members. Mr. Hamilton believes doubt and uncertainty are natural and will be ex-

OTTAWA (CP)—The rumblings of a disappointed and angry civil service continue today over the government's refusal to grant a general pay increase sought for 2 1/2 years.

Indications that some civil servants across Canada are hailing at buying Canada Savings Bonds have come to the attention of officials in the joint action committee of the Public Service Organizations of Canada.

Today the Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada in a statement said the government's emphasis that the salary increase would cost $242,000,000 this year includes the cost of items irrelevant to the salary question. It would take only $75,000,000 to make civil service salaries retroactive while other adjustments could be voted later, the institute said.

The government decision affects some 147,000 salaried civil servants and about 125,000 members of the armed services and RCMP.

BLACK ENVELOPE

The public service joint action committee has heard from organizations and associations from Cape Breton to British Columbia, a committee official said.

Communications from the Cape Breton district council of the Civil Service Federation, criticizing the government decision came in an envelope edged in black.

The Sudbury Canadian Postal Employees Association and the Saskatoon Postal Brotherhood of Canada both sent the joint action committee telegrams stating they had passed resolutions to refrain from purchasing Canada Savings Bonds.

Eric Otto, assistant national secretary of the postal employees union in Vancouver, and Otto Johnson, general secretary-treasurer of the Vancouver branch, said they have heard of 11 cases of employees cancelling or selling their bonds.

Both Otto and Johnson said they thought the cancellations were made individually, not part of an organized campaign, although "the move could become widespread."

PM Discusses Mexico Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and President Adolfo Lopez Mateos of Mexico today had a 45-minute discussion dealing mainly with trade.

The president said at a press conference that he and Mr. Diefenbaker dealt fundamentally with trade and that they contemplate an expansion of Mexican-Canadian trade. Mexico's main import from Canada is paper and Canada's chief import from Mexico cotton.

The president, speaking through an interpreter, said he invited Mr. Diefenbaker to visit Mexico where he would be received "with open arms."

Mr. Diefenbaker had replied that he would endeavor to visit Mexico when he could find the time.

After the half-hour press conference the president visited the National Research Council and lunched with Mr. Diefenbaker at the prime minister's home.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY RULES

Make 'Ghosts' Luminous

CHICAGO (AP)—For safety and the National Safety Council's sake this Halloween, stick to the old-fashioned reflective tape on the child. They said to make sure the children's costumes if they are costumes are flameproof and going outside and paint false light-colored so they can be seen on them if they want seen plainly at night. Be sure the costumes won't trip their feet. The American Medical Association hedges or fences.

Masks are dangerous, because they restrict vision and provide a danger of suffocation. Other dangerous equipment include candles, torches, knives, fireworks or other sharp instruments.

MINER PARTLY TO BLAME

COURTENAY — A coroner's jury ruled here Thursday that Albert Brown, 58, was partly to blame for his death in a mine slide Wednesday.

Brown was cutting into a pillar of coal at the T-Sable River Mine near here when the slide occurred. The jury said it was caused in part by Brown's error of judgment.

The Herter Doctrine

IN HIS NEWS CONFERENCE last week the U.S. Secretary of State set out a principle which may become known as the Herter Doctrine.

Briefly, it makes the point that if the Soviets insist on being recognized as the leaders of the Communist bloc, then they must accept responsibility for the acts of that bloc.

The statement carries a certain logic. Whether it does more — whether it becomes a basis for an operative foreign policy — remains to be seen.

Apart from certain vacillations by Yugoslavia, Communist states, including China, have on various occasions announced their recognition of Moscow's leadership.

On the basis of these acknowledgments, the Western world is entitled to say to Russia, "If you're the boss, it's up to you to keep your boys in line."

But while such an injunction from the West may be entirely reasonable, it is by no means certain that Moscow will, or can, direct or control the actions of under-states within the Communist orbit.

Mr. Khrushchev may be honest in his announced desire to preserve peace—he recognizes the intolerable results that would follow a nuclear war. And he may be drawing away from an earlier policy of aggression which brought territories under Russian suzerainty.

At the same time recent events leave in doubt his ability to control aggressive moves by China. China also preaches peace. "We shall never invade anyone," said China's Defence Minister Marshal Lin Biao in the course of the October 1 celebrations of a decade of Communist rule in Peking. But while the important Chinese figure proclaimed an apparent aversion to aggressive invasion, he also said that "we must liberate the Pescadores, Formosa and the offshore Islands."

And he spoke while India was protesting the intrusion by Chinese forces of the Himalayas and the subjugation of Tibet.

Moreover, when Mr. Khrushchev, fresh from his barnstorming tour of the United States, appeared in Peking, his visit was received with unusual reserve by the leaders of Red China. In what appears to have been a piece of studied neglect, they avoided comment on the Russian leader's announcement that "everything must be done really to clear the atmosphere and create conditions for friendship among nations."

Mr. Herter may very properly say that the leader of the Communist bloc must assume responsibility for the actions of the Communist bloc. There is, however, no indication of China's willingness to let anyone outside China tell that country what it shall or shall not do.

If Mr. Khrushchev is prepared to assume the role of father in the Communist household, it is all too evident that he has at least one strong-willed son, in China, who isn't going to be influenced completely by a parent's admonitions.

While the so-called Herter doctrine may cut some ice with Moscow, it would be a dangerous principle to assume that the edict of the Kremlin is the unbreakable law for Peking.

Mr. Herter knows that only too well. He will scarcely use the principle he has put forward with the assurance that Russia will control the activities of the Communist bloc. The "boys" in the Communist bloc have proved too often that they won't necessarily stay in line.

Promises and Prospects

FOR THE PAST FEW YEARS Canada's huge trading deficit with the United States, of the order of a billion dollars annually, has been balanced in part by the steady inflow of investment dollars from our neighbor. This money has been in the form of long-term loans; it has gone into mines, oil wells, large production plants and other permanent assets.

But now, although the flow of American capital continues, it is changing in nature. As Liberal leader Lester Pearson pointed out this week, it is becoming preponderantly short-term capital rather than long-term. Broadly, it might be described as consumer funds rather than production funds—and because of this it will tend to aggravate the trade imbalance which heretofore it has alleviated.

The capital investments have gone into production units, which provide goods for export and home consumption. This has tended to decrease our imports from the United States and increase our exports to that country, thus helping to correct the large deficit. But short term loans are more likely to be used for commercial purposes than for than industrial—and one of these purposes could be to finance increased imports.

An important balance wheel in our economy is thus slowing and we should shortly feel the effects of this.

A sharper danger, however, exists in the nature of the new capital imports. Such money is more volatile than long-term investment. The amount offered, and the amount already in the country, may fluctuate quickly and violently. This could have shattering effects on our domestic economy.

We are thus in a much more precarious position than formerly, and are much more dependent on the United States.

This is a far cry from the situation pictured by Mr. Diefenbaker in his successful bid for election. His promise of a better-balanced economy, of decreased dependence on the United States and increased trade with Britain, has not been fulfilled. Although we are in the midst of a boom, we are in a potentially unstable condition, the future of which has been taken, to a large extent, out of Canadian hands.

Port Alberni Looking Ahead

PORT ALBERNI COUNCIL members, particularly Alderman Douglas Mallory, are showing commendable foresight in advocating development of a park on the China Creek delta.

There is room there, says Mr. Mallory, for 1,000 tent sites and space for a 200-boat marina.

To many Victorians whose knowledge of the Port Alberni vicinity is fragmentary, a great deal of the wild land in that part of the Island seems desirable for camping locations. Casual drives in the vicinity indicate almost a superfluity of sites and scenery.

Whether this impression is justified or not, the Port Alberni council is wise to seek action now—while property is apparently available. Experience elsewhere shows that it is the part of folly to assume that good locations will always be available to the public. When they are good locations they are generally snapped up by private buyers.

If a China Creek delta park is good for Port Alberni, it is also good for Victorians who are showing an increased awareness of the camping amenities of Vancouver Island.

Good luck to the up-Island council in its campaign.

Lyonized Latin

SCHOLARS from 18 nations met in Lyons, France, the other day to see if they could stimulate more interest in Latin by simplifying its grammar, making its pronunciation uniform and by introducing new technical words to keep pace with modern civilization.

The conference doubtless provided academic interest for those participating—but to what purpose?

The study of Latin, as we understood it, provided unique benefits to the student partly because of the intricacies of its grammar. Learning Latin constructions, the individual was supposed to find a new appreciation for his own language. The grammar of the ancient tongue provided opportunities for a refined understanding of modern languages whose grammar may, or may not, have been learned at a mother's knee.

Pronunciation was important for its snob appeal, the Edinburgh school being highly favored. And apart from the mutilations used by some universities in granting degrees and listing graduates' names in Latinized form, there appeared no reason to implant in the language of an old civilization words which did not exist in that society.

Somehow we fail to appreciate the effort of the scholars from 18 countries. They aren't going to inject such a flow of new life into Latin that it becomes the language of the streets—nor for that matter an Esperanto even for the educated.

The Romans did a pretty fair job of talking and writing the language. Maybe we ought to leave it as they founded it.

They Ought to Quit Crying.

MR. GEORGE L. ROBERTS, principal of Oshawa Collegiate, has recently added his contribution to the argument that "too many of our teachers are simply not able to do their job."

Certainly there are too many teachers who are simply not able to do their job. Mr. Roberts, I believe, would also admit that there are too many tinkers, tailors, soldiers, sailors, doctors, lawyers and Indian chiefs who are simply not able to do their jobs.

Stott

Whatever the occupation, there are bound to be misfits in it, incompetents, some untrained and some with little ability.

No trade or profession has a monopoly on excellence. Teaching has it, and never had. And yet some of the people with the lowest certificates have undoubtedly done outstanding jobs in guiding children into good citizenship and what passes for success in this world.

Mr. Roberts is concerned because "in all of Canada only 25 per cent of teachers are university graduates; most of these are in secondary schools. Yet a teacher needs the fullest training to do his job efficiently and conscientiously."

Some people will raise an eyebrow at that point. If only 25 per cent of Canada's teachers are university graduates, it is also a fact that in British Columbia at least, the teacher training course draws off far more than its share of high school graduates.

And there may be a few people — I think there are a lot — who are not so sold on "certification" as Mr. Roberts seems to be. It must be a common-sense experience for adults to look back over their school lives and pick out teachers who had meagre qualifications, as far as certificates were concerned, but who did a magnificent job of teaching — stimulating the inquiring mind, giving the child discipline and affection, creating in him an appetite for learning.

On the other hand, the average person will recall the odd instance in which a teacher of high academic standing gave almost nothing to the kids.

This is no argument against the best possible training for teachers. By all means let's give them the widest opportunities we can to increase their own education.

On the other hand, let's not discredit some of the people in the profession who, often for economic reasons, haven't travelled as far up the scholastic ladder as they might.

Of course there are baby sitters presiding over youngsters in school and not enough competent people to handle them. Nobody is happy about that.

Nobody's happy about an incompetent mechanic working on his car, either.

And when it comes to the learned professions, the mere fact that one doctor is singled out as an excellent diagnostician while others are not, indicates the unevenness in ability in that field. If there weren't some pretty poor lawyers, the top-notchers in the profession wouldn't stand out so significantly.

If teaching is in such a bad way, how do you account for the bright students — the products of schools which have suffered the disability of poor instructors? The kids have wider fields to cover these days. Many of them do an excellent job of handling the courses. Is it that they progress in spite of the state of the profession?

"What's wrong with our teachers?" asks Mr. Roberts and then replies, "Too little professional training, too little public respect, too little self-confidence and self-assertion."

Maybe. But he's not talking about a lot of teachers I know. And I doubt very much that they appreciate this assessment of them.

Just possibly some spokesmen for the profession, in their honest efforts to improve it, are crying too hard.

Peer Named First Lord Of Admiralty

LONDON (Reuters) Prime Minister Macmillan today announced a number of new appointments to his government.

He named 40-year-old Lord Carrington as first lord of the admiralty, top civilian administrative post for naval affairs. Carrington, a high commissioner in Australia since 1946, replaces the Earl of Selkirk, who has been appointed Commissioner for Singapore.

Macmillan named a new 19-member cabinet Wednesday following his Conservative party's triumph in last week's election. Today's appointments concerned non-cabinet posts in the government.

Christopher Soames, Sir Winston Churchill's son-in-law, was appointed war secretary. Air Minister George Ward keeps his post.

William J. Taylor becomes parliamentary undersecretary for air in succession to Airey Neave, who asked to leave the government.

Charles Ian Orr-Ewing, formerly parliamentary secretary to the admiralty, was named as civil lord of the admiralty.

Quebec Seeking New Deal

Premier Offers Plan to Solve Education Clash

By RICHARD DAINAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — The voice of Quebec, and its tone in dealing with federal-provincial issues, has changed.

The province's new premier, Jean Lesage, today announced an agreement at an hour-long press conference after Thursday's session of the two-day federal-provincial fiscal conference.

He followed it up today by announcing he has outlined to Finance Minister Fleming a proposal to break the long Ottawa-Quebec deadlock on federal grants to universities. Agreement had been reached that officials of the federal and provincial finance departments should meet without delay to examine the details.

"Mr. Fleming received the proposed solution with great interest," he said.

Details of the proposal have not been announced but it is believed to cover two main settlement points.

How to dispose of $25,000,000 in federal grants turned down by Quebec universities since 1953 and now held in trust by the National Conference of Canadian Universities.

How to arrange for future distribution of Quebec universities of sums equivalent to the present annual federal grants.

Thursday Saue said the late Premier Duplessis, whom he succeeded a month ago, echoed the sentiments of Quebec people in taking his no-dual stand on federal-provincial taxation issues.

"I wish I could put across the idea that what Mr. Duplessis said on fiscal problems reflects very clearly the feelings and sentiments of the people of Quebec."

"If today, or tomorrow, a

... changes tone

Quebec premier tried to change the basis of this policy, it would not remain in office very long."

Sauve also said:

1. The Quebec government does not want the Polish art treasures, stored in the steel vault of provincial museum in Quebec City. As soon as the government was shown a legal way of turning them over to the rightful owners, it would gladly do so.

2. Quebec is studying the possibility of implementing a hospital insurance plan but the situation is complicated by the fact hospitals in Quebec are operated either by the government, lay corporations or Roman Catholic orders.

3. There is a better understanding all-round of problems arising from federal-provincial cost-sharing plans such as the Trans-Canada Highway.

Quebec is the only province in Canada which has no taxation agreement with the federal government and levies all its own direct taxes. It also is the only province outside the federal-provincial agreements on hospital insurance and on the Trans-Canada Highway.

BUT COSTLY

Mental, TB Insurance Asked Again

OTTAWA (CP) — A number of provinces at Thursday's federal-provincial fiscal conference, finance ministers advocated inclusion of mental and tuberculosis treatment in the national hospital insurance plan.

Saskatchewan Treasurer C. M. Fines, leading off the discussion, urged that the federal government immediately fulfil promises to this effect made in the past by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming.

Other provinces favored this stand, but Mr. Fleming later said he told the provincial delegates the federal government could widen the hospital insurance plan as suggested only if it deducted the additional cost from some other federal payments to the provinces.

He said he reiterated "Mr. Diefenbaker's stand at the fiscal conference in November, 1957: If the provinces want federal aid for TB and mental care, it would mean that tax-sharing payments couldn't be boosted by that amount."

"There's a limit to what we can do," Mr. Fleming said. He agreed, however, that he is on record as having advocated, while in Commons opposition, federal hospital insurance payments for TB and mental hospitals.

UN CORRESPONDENCE

A Petty Dispute

NEW YORK — At a time when international tensions appear to be easing, an old-time, cold war fight is going on at the United Nations over elections to the Security Council.

In the competition for the Eastern European seat, Poland is backed by the Soviet Union, Turkey by the United States. Each appears to have about half the votes, each says it will not yield, and a deadlock seems certain.

So certain does this seem to be that there has even been discussion as to the possibility of the council functioning with only 10 instead of 11 members.

There is strong sympathy for Poland in this election and the United States, in backing Turkey, has come in for much corridor criticism, some of it bitter. To delegates and observers the dispute seems petty, damaging, and unnecessary.

The story goes back to 1955 when the Philippines was backed by the United States against Yugoslavia. The result was a deadlock which was ended when the two-year term was divided and each agreed to sit for one year.

In the next election, in 1957, the U.S. successfully backed Japan and it was assumed that the seat, heretofore allotted to Eastern Europe, had been assigned to Asia.

This shift was challenged on the grounds that a "gentlemen's agreement" in 1946 had assigned the seat to Eastern Europe. The United States argued, however, that the agreement had been only one year and that the seat should go to Asia whose representation has increased sharply.

Canada was opposed because this breaking of the gentlemen's agreement would jeopardize the Commonwealth seat.

This year, with relaxed tensions, there is considerable sympathy for re-assigning the seat to Eastern Europe and there is special support for Poland as the most independent-minded of the Communist countries.

The Polish candidacy was put forward in August after consultation by the Poles with many other countries, including the United States. No objection was indicated. Then, only two weeks before the election, Turkey was put forward, backed by the United States, as an Eastern European candidate.

The Poles are said to have been surprised as anyone and well-informed sources say they probably would not have run if they had known they would be opposed. Now that they're in it, however, they say they will not yield.

Polish Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki pointed out that the Turks have been on the council before as representatives of the Middle East. Furthermore he pointed out that they are members of the Afro-Asian group and that Turkey is a vice-president of the General Assembly representing Asia.

By what right do they seek election to the Eastern European seat, he asked. Asian and African delegates are particularly outspoken in deploring the Turkish candidacy which they fear will damage the dramatically improved atmosphere at the United Nations. Now there is certain to be bitterness, not only between Communist and non-Communist countries, but also among associates of the United States.

I am told by one of the best-informed men at the UN that virtually the only reason for U.S. action in putting forward the Turkish candidacy lies in stone-wall opposition to any increase in Communist voting strength.

The United States is actually aware that the day of automatic voting majorities in the UN has almost passed and Americans are unwilling to yield a single vote if they can avoid it. However friends of the United States and some Americans say that this stonewall attitude will lose the U.S. far more votes than it will save.

Pipe, Stogie Fans Rejoice!

Cigarets More Harmful to Heart
Says Doctor Who Doesn't Know Why

Cigaret smoking is more injurious to the heart than cigar or pipe smoking, in the opinion of Dr. John W. Gofman of the school of medicine at the University of California in San Francisco.

"Our research over the past 10 years has shown that there should be more injurious than is an association between cigars or pipes."

"It may be something they put in the cigarette paper to keep it burning. Oral may be that cigarette smokers inhale smoke pipe and cigar smokers do not."

"I wish I could give you a straight answer, but as yet our knowledge does not extend that far."

Blood Pressure Zooms While Smoking

Dr. Gofman said test cases showed blood pressure could rise as much as 14 points during the smoking of a cigarette, although pressure might be normal after the cigarette had been smoked.

"He added that there are exceptions to every rule and a heavy cigarette smoker could sometimes defy all the known rules of medical science."

"It is the same in all heart cases," he said. "There is always the so-called sinner who does all the things which should give him a heart attack and then lives to a ripe old age."

Dr. Gofman agreed that Winston Churchill could be an example of this.

He said President Eisenhower, who suffered a heart attack two years ago, was "a wonderful example" of first-rate medical care.

"But, according to our ideas, he should have undergone treatment 20 or 30 years ago. Modern research shows that the signs of heart trouble are evident many years before they occur and are to a great extent hereditary."

"Within the next 20 years, I believe it will be possible for doctors to reconstruct a human system on the basis of hereditary weaknesses or early deficiencies."

Dr. Gofman said many heart ailments are due to the intake of too many fatty foods, but different bodies required different kind of fat.

"My researches have shown that marine fat (fat from fishes) is generally less injurious than animal or butter fat."

Dr. Gofman said the popular press could take credit for spreading enlightenment about medical science among the general public.

"Thirty years ago, the average man or woman had little knowledge of medical matters and the medical profession did not give information to the press as it does today."

"One result of this increased knowledge is that patients now ask their physicians very pointed and pertinent questions, which the physician has to answer intelligently."

"At the same time most people do not consult their doctor nearly as often as they should. They see him when they suffer discomfort, but they do not see him with the idea of securing their future against potential ailments."

Dr. Gofman revealed that heart ailments have increased

FOUR-MILE DAILY WALK BEATS WEEKEND 'BLITZ'

A three or four-mile walk each day is much more beneficial to the human body than a weekend of athletics, says Dr. George C. Griffith, professor of medicine at the University of Southern California.

"You cannot sit down most of the week and expect to regain your fitness by charging around the golf course on Saturdays and Sundays."

"The human body thrives on regular daily exercise. Walking to work is an ideal way of getting it. So is cycling—or mowing the lawn with an old-fashioned mower."

Government, Doctors Must Work Together

Government in itself can never render the necessary medical care to the Canadian people without co-operation from the medical profession, Dr. E. Kirk Eby of Leamington, Ont., told the annual meeting of the British Columbia Medical Association Thursday.

At the same time, he said, "the medical profession cannot render the necessary care without a large measure of government support."

"Fortunately to date we in Canada have not experienced the direct intervention of government in the personal liberty of the profession found in so many other countries."

"I like to believe this is because the medical profession and government have been willing to sit down together, and discuss medical economic problems."

PEARSON ACCUSES PM 'OF MONEY MISTREATMENT

Public 'Fooled' on Taxes, Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Pearson Thursday night accused Prime Minister Diefenbaker of trying to "fool" Canadians about the tight-money situation.

In a national television speech, the Liberal leader also suggested Mr. Diefenbaker was misleading Canadians when he said recently that the government has created "hundreds of thousands of new jobs" and that a majority of Canadians are paying lower taxes now than when the Progressive Conservatives came to power in mid-1957.

MORE AVAILABLE

Mr. Pearson said the facts are that as Canada's population increased the number of men and women available for new jobs rose by 244,000 while employment has not kept pace with that increase.

And as for taxes, "the government will collect more taxes this year from more people than any Canadian government has done in history. Yet not nearly enough to meet its swollen expenditure, which are the highest in our history."

But Mr. Pearson said "even more misleading was the prime minister's treatment—or rather mistreatment—of the tight-money situation."

BIG COAL CUTBACK BY BRITAIN'S MINES

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's nationalized coal industry today announced a five-year plan to cut back production by up to 40,000,000 tons. Western Europe is suffering from a growing surplus of coal, chiefly because of competition from oil and gas, progress in fuel efficiency and modernization of mines.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Real Estate Glut Hasn't Hit Here

By HAL MALONE, Times Business Editor
If growth brings problems, Victorians should gladly let Vancouver have all the growth it wants while we remain relatively static, unclogged and unworried.

This is particularly true in real estate.

Three Victoria real estate men were asked Thursday if they thought there was a glut of unsold new houses and unoccupied rental suites as Vancouver reportedly has.

A admitting that real estate in Victoria is a "bit slow" at the moment, the trio emphatically answered "No."

The trio differed on whether or not a buyer's market prevails here as it reportedly does in Vancouver.

Two agreed a buyer's market does exist here to the extent that when sales are slow it means that vendors can't get the down-payments they ask.

A third said it is incorrect to say a buyer's market exists, "just as it would be incorrect to say a seller's market exists."

"From the seller's point of view," he said, "the down payment may be realistic. Just because people aren't snapping up homes with the asked for down doesn't mean the current situation favors either side. It's a reflection of tight money. Neither side has things in its favor."

HIGH PRICE BLAMED

One realtor attributed the glut of unsold new homes in Vancouver to the high price of lots.

"Vancouver is running out of building lots. In one modestly-located subdivision ordinary building lots are selling for up to $7,000. At that price the builder almost has to put up a home costing $14,000. Since the best mortgage available is about $12,000 that leaves an $8,000 down payment. People just don't have that kind of money.

"In Victoria," he said, "I know of a quite decent building lot, treed and with all services, which sold for $2,000 not long ago. Add a $12,000 mortgage to that, throw in a mortgage of say $11,000 to $12,000 and you need only a down of between $2,000 and $3,000. That's more in the neighborhood of a middle-income buyer."

NO PROBLEM

On unoccupied rental suites, the Victoria men say no problem exists here.

"I could rent one good suite or house a day if I could find one," said one.

"Sure there are listings for them," said another. "But have you seen them? Oil heating means an oil stove. Recreation upstairs suite means a few sheets of plywood in an attic. But the true test is to find a good suite. Any you can find I can rent."

The third realtor said the proof of the high rentability of Victoria apartments is the demand when a new block is going up. He told of a new apartment block just barely finished which has only three vacancies "before anyone has moved in."

"Vancouver, on the other hand," said the realtor, "has been building apartment blocks at a fantastic rate. There were two reasons for this: (a) the population growth and (b) an investment gamble that with the shortage of low down payment homes more people would become apartment dwellers.

OUT OF HAND

"But the situation is out of hand and I think you'll see quite a slowdown until the situation rights itself."

All three Victoria realtors agreed on two things: real estate is more reasonable in Victoria than in prairie cities or Toronto; and, it is still one of the best investments which can be made.

"A property which sold for $40,000 in Victoria is worth $80,000 on the Toronto market," said one realtor.

He told of a Winnipeg couple who recently sold their home for $36,000.

"They took the first offer which was actually lower than the market price. They asked us to find a similar type dwelling here. We did for $25,000."

As an investment, real estate doesn't offer the fast turnover today that it did a few years ago.

"But as a long-term investment I don't think it can be beat," said a realtor. "On a long-term basis it should appreciate 4 to 10 per cent annually. I know I never had any money until I had real estate."

CANADIAN BREWERIES COMBINE HEARING

'Truly National Concern'

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario Supreme Court hearing was "told Thursday that in 1943 Canadian Breweries Limited wanted to become a truly national concern" by acquiring breweries in the four western provinces.

The company is charged under the Combines Investigation Act with operating a combine consisting of a merger, trust or monopoly. It has pleaded not guilty.

Special Crown counsel R. R. Wilson tabled many letters written by E. P. Taylor, chairman of the board of Canadian Breweries.

One written in 1943 said it was planned at that time to produce the company's "well known Ontario brands in the western plants and gradually soft-pedal the local brands."

ADVERTISING WASTAGE

"In normal times we advertise in publications with a national circulation and there is a great wastage if we do not sell our products in the entire country," he added.

In a letter dated April 26,

1943, Mr. Taylor said the firm was originally formed to "constitute a strong brewing company in Ontario, built up from numerous fairly large and small brewing companies of which there were altogether too many in the province."

"Having been successful in Ontario, we have now raised our sights and plan to repeat the process in the four western provinces so that we will become a truly national concern."

Gas Light To Burn 100 Years

NANAIMO—An ancient gas lamp which will be kept alight for 100 years was scheduled to be dedicated here today.

The lamp has been placed on Pioneer Square here by the Vancouver Island Gas Co.

The firm presented it to the city in its centennial year.

NANAIMO—Chamber of Commerce will attempt to set up package tours in an effort to attract and retain tourists wishing to see Vancouver Island.

The chamber plans a 12-month promotion program.

DUNCAN—Walter Smith, Duncan, was fined $10 after pleading guilty in Duncan police court to a charge of permitting a car to be driven by a minor.

Smith told Magistrate A. C. Sutton he knew Joe Wikkerink, Cowichan Station, was the holder of a minor's licence, and was restricted to driving a vehicle with insurance.

The vehicle was impounded after an accident Oct. 10 as it was not covered by insurance.

DUNCAN—Lawrence D. Pollock, city hall office employee, was honored Tuesday when Mayor J. T. Dobson gave him a diploma for completing the first two years of a municipal administration course.

The course is sponsored jointly by the B.C. municipal affairs department and the University of British Columbia.

QUALICUM BEACH—Fourth annual B.C. high school chess tournament will be held here Nov. 13-14.

Top prize is Dave Creemer trophy.

CNIB Campaign Seeks $6,000 In Cowichan Area

(From Duncan Bureau)

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind annual fund drive opened Thursday in the Cowichan District with an objective of $6,000.

Barney W. Cocks, Duncan, in his ninth year as campaign manager, said more than 600 letters have been sent in the "only mailing campaign of its kind in B.C."

The Duncan campaign committee has set a goal for $5,000. The committee includes Hector Stone, chairman; Miss V. T. Harris, treasurer; Bert Gray, Walter Hudson, and James Hirst, committee members; and Mrs. R. Arlett, secretary. Chemainus has an objective of $1,000.

Coal Mine Stays Open

COURTENAY—Reports that the T'Sable River Mine of Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. will be closing operations next year have been denied by E. O. T. Simpson, company vice-president in Vancouver.

Canadian Press said in a recent news story the B.C. Cement Co. at Bamberton had decided to change to oil. It added the cement firm, a customer of the coal company for 40 years, made the decision "following the announcement by Canadian Collieries that it will close down T'Sable River Mine next year."

"We have never made such an announcement," Mr. Simpson said in a telephone conversation from Vancouver. "We are carrying on, working four days a week compared to the 2½-day average for the summer."

Miss B. H. (Bernie) Osborne, Victoria X-ray technician now working at West Coast General Hospital in Port Alberni, has won a $250 prize in a national color photo contest sponsored by the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

Contestants were asked to submit photos which they thought best illustrated the face of Canada as described in selected passages from the book, "Canada, Tomorrow's Giant," by Bruce Hutchison, Victoria author and editor of The Victoria Daily Times.

"I didn't think I had anything good enough, but my mother convinced me to take a crack at it," she said. "So I packaged up five of my best photos and mailed them at 6 p.m., Sept. 15, last day of the contest."

5,000 ENTRIES

More than 5,000 entries were submitted and $7,000 in prizes distributed. Top prize of $1,000 went to a Quebec entry.

Miss Osborne became interested in photography five years ago when she started X-ray training at St. Joseph's Hospital.

"I started developing X-ray film and decided to try photography as a hobby," she said. Her home is at 1719 Stanley Avenue.

3-WAY PACT SIGNED New Copper Mine Near Courtenay

COURTENAY—Signing of an agreement between Mount Washington Copper, Noranda Explorations, and the E and N Railway has opened the way for mining of copper at Mount Washington, 14 miles north-west of here.

Gordon C. Murray, copper company president, managing director, and board chairman, said this week some work will be done this fall on road building and lower showings in preparation for an active season next summer.

Preliminary work in the area was closed down recently pending settlement between the railway company and mine owners.

"Just how much we'll get done this year I don't know," Mr. Murray said, "but when snow forces us from the higher levels we will continue working lower down."

Size of the operation is not known, and company officials have no idea how many men will be employed. Tonnage and grade data provided by exploration will be announced later.

Mr. Washington, 5,215 feet in height, is six miles due west of Wolf Lake and immediately north of Forbidden Plateau. It is the highest peak within a radius of five miles.

Jeweller Locked Out by Thieves

PARKSVILLE—Thieves who tried to break into the store of Sam Gough, jeweller, not only failed in their attempt, but jammed the door so that even the proprietor could not enter.

Mr. Gough had to ask help from friends near by to get in to his store Wednesday morning.

There are 270 men employed at the mine on a three-shift basis. It is about 15 miles south of here.

18% Pay Hike Refused For Cowichan Teachers

TUGS READY TO PULL SHIP OFF ROCKS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two tugs today were to attempt to pull the grounded passenger freighter Skeena Prince off the rocks of Boyle Island, near Alert Bay, on the east coast of Vancouver Island.

The ship went aground on the tiny island during a heavy fog Wednesday. None of the three passengers or 18 crew members was injured.

Passengers were taken off and taken to Port Hardy and flown to Vancouver. The crew stayed on board.

Northland Navigation Company, owners of the ship, said the two tugs were standing by to pull the ship off the rocks. It said the extent of the damage to the 1,500-ton ship is not known.

(From Duncan Bureau)

Cowichan School District teachers' request for a 1960 salary increase of 18.6 per cent has been refused, trustees of School District 65 heard Thursday in a report from their salary committee.

Two negotiation meetings with the teachers had presented "very little evidence that an increase was necessary," Trustee Will Peck said.

"Although their demands were unsuitable for a wage for negotiation we did come up with a counter-offer. The teachers were offered a scale equal to the highest salaries paid at present on Vancouver Island, with the exception of the isolated west coast districts," he said.

The teachers, when asked to support their requests, had told the board that "these are the salaries that they are worth," Trustee Peck reported.

BELOW REST

"We are willing to negotiate with school principals separately to bring their salaries up to those in other districts. Our present scale of administrators' salaries is below the rest of Vancouver Island," Trustee Peck said.

He reported the board's salary committee had repeated the 1958 offer which would bring the principals' scale up to par with the surrounding districts.

The teachers are asking for individual increases ranging from $20 to $320 a month. These increases would add $115,000 to the district's salary bill, equal to three mills on the tax rate. It would bring the school district's teachers' salary bill to $733,632 annually.

The committee had compared the demanded salaries with the provincial government basic grant schedule and found that with a salary of $6,000 only $4,000 would be shareable.

Zoo Officers Quit In Row

NANAIMO—Four of six executive members of Vancouver Island Zoological Society have resigned with a drive to raise $10,000 set to start shortly.

Some blamed insufficient cooperation among members of the organization, and suggested friction with Paul Hertel, manager of the society's zoo at Wellington.

The society was formed after an escaped lioness from the zoo killed a little girl last May, and institutions of provincial regulations governing zoo operations were tightened.

MAIL EARLY!

It's Later Than You Think

It may sound early but it's later than you think for mailing Christmas parcels and letters overseas, most office officials said today.

They urged Victorians to start mailing their parcels to ensure delivery in time for Christmas.

Last minute postings to distant countries may result in parcels not leaving in time for Christmas delivery, they warned.

MARK AS "GIFTS"

Here are some post office mailing instructions:

All gift parcels must be clearly marked "gift parcel."

A complete customs declaration form must be attached to all parcels addressed abroad.

Gifts should be firmly and securely packed in corrugated containers wrapped tightly in several folds of thick wrapping paper and tied securely with twine.

Mailing of matches or inflammable substances is prohibited by law—so are fresh fruit and other perishables.

Food in tin cans is prohibited by Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary and Romania.

All parcels should include a return address.

Final posting dates for surface mail and air mail are:

NEW ZEALAND

New Zealand—letters, Nov. 23, Dec. 10; parcels, Nov. 23, Dec. 10. Japan—letters, Nov. 20, Dec. 11; parcels, Nov. 20, Dec. 11. Hong Kong—letters, Nov. 14, Dec. 11; parcels, Nov. 5, Dec. 11. Philippines—letters, Nov. 10, Dec. 6; parcels, Nov. 6, Dec. 5.

A discussion of program topics will be staged by the Toimie PTA at its regular meeting on Monday at 8 p.m. in the school.

Parents of the children in Mrs. Kemps' room will be hosts and hostesses.

NIKITA MOVES FAST TO PACIFY HOUSEWIVES

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Siberian housewives received a swift response to complaints about the lack of consumer goods made to Nikita Khrushchev himself last week.

A government decree published Thursday night set the pattern for more production of television sets, washing machines, refrigerators and other labor-saving devices.

The plan to boost consumer goods production may have been laid down weeks ago, though the timing of the decree suggests the Soviet premier had a hand in it.

Khrushchev toured Siberian cities—and received an earful about the shortage of consumer goods from housewives—on his way home from Communist China last week.

B.C. MAY ORDER BOOSTER POLIO SHOTS

Did B.C. Get Weak Vaccine?

Booster shots of Salk anti-polio vaccine may be offered by the provincial government because of the possibility a weak vaccine was distributed in the province earlier.

Assistant provincial health officer at Vancouver, Dr. G. F. Elliott, said Thursday this might be the reason that nine B.C. residents who were vaccinated against polio, later contracted the disease.

He pointed out, however, when the vaccine was introduced it was expected it would be only 85 per cent effective. The figures have not shaken the faith of the health department.

Health Minister Eric Martin said this morning he has instructed his staff to give consideration to a booster shot program.

He said the province has adequate supplies of the vaccine. A shortage had occurred during the epidemic which raged in Montreal last summer, but the situation is now normal.

Fatal falls to children under five years of age are often on stairs, or from windows and porches.

RUSSIA BACKS MILITARY BAN IN ANTARCTIC

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia joined Thursday with 11 other countries in calling for a ban on military use of the Antarctic and a guarantee for unhindered scientific inquiries there.

The cordial atmosphere at the opening of a 12-national conference was warm enough to melt some of the ice at the South Pole.

Delegates expressed hope that the conference would produce a treaty outlawing military use of the vast subcontinent where scientists of the 12 countries have been co-operating under the International Geophysical Year program.

State Secretary Christian A. Herter pledged American dedication to continuing peaceful scientific co-operation in the Antarctic.

The Russians, headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov, raised no objection when the head of the U.S. delegation, international lawyer Herman Phleger, took by acclaim the post of permanent chairman of the conference.

Satellite Silent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Explorer VI, the paddle-wheel satellite launched more than two months ago, has lost its sun-powered radio voice. It was announced Thursday its transmitters had been expected to last the lifetime of the satellite, more than a year.

Low-Cost World Air Fares

VANCOUVER—World-wide introduction of "economy" air fares will continue to be an objective of Canadian Pacific Airlines, according to H. Bryan Renwick, Canadian Pacific Airlines vice-president for traffic.

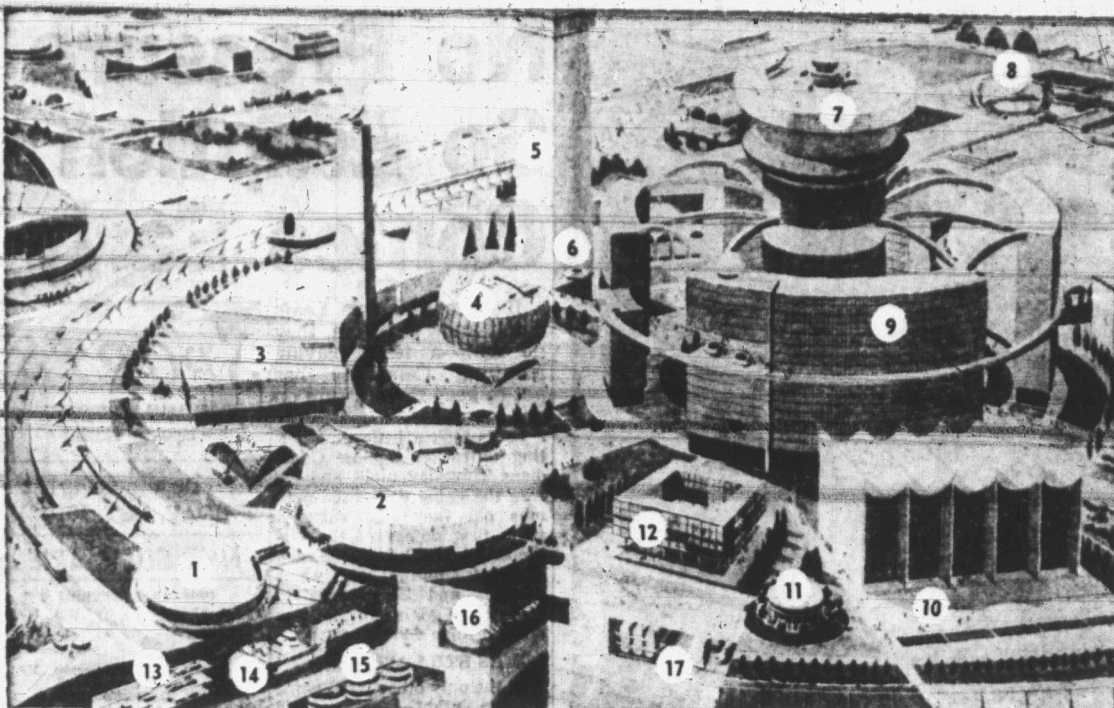

He commented today on the failure of 63-member airlines at the International Air Travel Association to reach agreement on the low fare proposal at the traffic conference which he attended in Honolulu. The annual conference discussed international airline fares for the year beginning next April 1.

"Although some of the airlines disagree, we are convinced that the availability of low economy fares, already a big success on the Atlantic, will tap vast new sources of traffic for air services in other parts of the world. We believe that the public should be offered the choice of luxurious first class or the low-priced economy transportation," Mr. Renwick said.

"Never in the history of aviation have the airlines been confronted with such a complexity of economic, technical and even political problems. However, there is no doubt that with the progressive introduction of larger, faster aircraft and improved facilities, the air traveller can look forward to the best value ever offered for his air transport dollar," Mr. Renwick concluded.

THE CITY OF 2000 A.D.

From Urban Blight to Beautiful Living

The City of the Year 2000 pictured here is no mere science-fiction. New discoveries in science and technology make most of its features possible today—and the demands of an ever-expanding population will make such cities inevitable and necessary within the 40 years remaining in the 20th century. This possible version of the City of Tomorrow was envisioned by This Earth, official publication of Permanente Cement Co. Its mass of glass, concrete and metal is beautifully functional and is designed around expected advances in construction, transportation, communication and, above all, man's growing awareness of the people around him. In this latter sense, the City of Tomorrow is being built today by us all.

NUCLEAR BOMB ABOARD

Giant Fireball As Jets Collide

HARDINGSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A nuclear-armed B-52 bomber and its refuelling jet tanker collided Thursday night in a fiery blast which lit the sky for 150 miles. At least four men were killed.

Four members of the B-52 crew were unhurt or suffered only minor injuries. They parachuted to safety after the two planes came together during the refuelling operation and burst into flames. Four others were missing.

"It looked like the whole world—the whole sky—was on fire," said Mrs. Eliza Robertson, who watched the two aircraft career toward the earth.

The air force would not say what type nuclear weapon the B-52 carried. But it said there was no danger of an explosion and no need to evacuate the area.

ROOM FOR ONLY FOUR, BUT SIX IN RUNNING

DETROIT (AP) — The National Football League is making every effort to add four teams to its 12-team structure—two each in 1960 and 1961, the president of the Detroit Lions disclosed today.

"But all the mechanics and cities are yet to be decided," said Edwin J. Anderson.

The Lions' president-general manager said six cities are in the running for the four franchises. He listed them as Buffalo, Boston, Miami, Louisville, Dallas and Houston. Anderson said the NFL clubs voted 11-1 for expansion.

ANOTHER SLANT

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Wilt Chamberlain, the Philadelphia Warriors' new "golden giant," says he's already being made a target for rough stuff in the National Basketball Association.

WILT THE STILT

"They've been bawling me around good in the exhibition games," says Wilt-the-Stilt.

He adds, "but their rough stuff can't force me to change my style. They can't force me to use my elbows on them."

Those words from the hottest attraction that ever stepped into organized basketball may be the harbinger of many "incidents" during the NBA season, as the other seven clubs try to "contain" the seven-foot-two sensation and prevent his boosting the eastern division's last-place Warriors to the championship.

The season opens Saturday afternoon when the Cincinnati Royals invade the Boston Celtics; but Wilt no circuit action until they meet the New York Knicks at Madison Square Garden.

and his Warriors engage in following Saturday when they meet the New York Knicks at Madison Square Garden.

Twenty-two-year-old Chamberlain, who's receiving "in excess of $30,000, plus other benefits" for his first season in the NBA, apparently is convinced that the opposition will try to curtail his play by (1) incapacitating him or (2) forcing him to use the elbows and risk personal fouls.

Rough Play Something New, He Says

On the phone before an exhibition against Minneapolis Lakers, Wilt said, "this roughness is the big surprise I've found in our 10 exhibition games. There wasn't much of it when I was with the Harlem Globetrotters last season, or in my two years before that with Kansas U."

He accused no players nor clubs. Nine of those exhibitions were against the St. Louis Hawks; and one, against the Boston Celtics, defending champions.

Despite the roughness, he said he liked the NBA game because of the hot, competitive spirit among the players and the constant pressure and the speed and skill displayed by nearly everyone.

During the exhibition season, he said, he had been sharpening his pivot play and practicing foul shots.

In the 10 exhibition games with St. Louis and Boston, the towering Philadelphian averaged 24.2 points a game. That was a cause of satisfaction to Eddie Gottlieb, the Warriors' dynamic little owner.

Gottlieb said, "If Wilt can do that well during the season, we'll be strong contenders for the championship. And I'm confident he will. I'm confident his scoring will be just as good as his rebounding."

Chamberlain averaged about 30 points a game in college. The owner predicted Wilt would get better "when the team jells." He pointed out that the big fellow and the team have been together only three weeks.

Gottlieb concluded, "He still has much to learn about the professional game; but he'll be great because he's remarkably fast and agile and has a rare gift for ball-handling. And there's no awkwardness to offset his height advantage."

Former Boxer Great Ed Longfellow Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Eddie Longfellow, professional lacrosse star before the First World War and president of Canada Electric Company Limited, died Wednesday while hunting partridge at his camp near Sundridge, Ont.

Mr. Longfellow came to Toronto from British Columbia in 1910 and joined the Toronto of the National League, winners of the world championship in 1912. He played centre on the team.

One teammate, Norm Hawshaw who played point, described Mr. Longfellow as "big and fast and an all-round team player." Other members of the team included Billy Fitzgerald, Davey Gibbons, Buck Marshall and Eddie Powers.

Hard to Match Pair of Aces?

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Jockey Club has called off this year's running of the Pimlico Special after it failed to arrange a duel between Hillsdale and Sword Dancer.

The race, scheduled Nov. 28, was designed to bring together the top race horses of the year at the close of the eastern racing season.

Toronto Gets New Managers

TORONTO (CP) — Danny Menezes, 41, general manager with Memphis baseball club, has taken over similar duties with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. He replaces Rudy Schaffer.

At the same time, Leafs announced that Mel McGaha will replace Dixie Walker as field manager.

Hall of Famers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Willie Shoemaker, tops among current United States riders, and old-timers Mack Garner and Carroll Shilling were elected Thursday to the Jockey's Hall of Fame at Pimlico race track.

Rivals Will Need These!

Wayne Farmer, Halkett, Lorimer and halfback Dave Rees. Halkett has thrown nine touchdown passes in last three games, including four to Lorimer. Rees and Farmer have accounted for eight other majors. ## Arlo May Miss Totem Meeting

Victoria Cougars' roster may be down to 14 players when the team meets Seattle Totems at Memorial Arena Saturday night in Western Hockey League action.

ARLO GOODWIN ... elbow acting up

Manager-coach Hal Laycoe said this morning that winger Arlo Goodwin has been classed as a doubtful starter, a victim of infection in his right elbow. "It was swollen like a balloon last night," said Laycoe. "He's been putting compresses on it. Arlo could be in the lineup against Seattle, but right now it looks doubtful."

The infection appears to be the result of an injury suffered last Friday in Vancouver and aggravated Wednesday when Goodwin landed on his elbow late in the third period after scoring Victoria's third goal against Calgary Stampede.

Cougars lost right winger Arnie Schmutz earlier this week for an indefinite period when he flew home to Saskatoon following the sudden death of his father.

"Seattle is looking very strong so far this season," said Laycoe.

"Bill MacFarland has apparently started using contact lenses and it looks like he's going to have his best year. He's on a line with Rudy Eilon and Marc Boileau and they seem like a sound line."

"With Fielder carrying another line, and good bench strength, Seattle could be very tough this season," he added. Game time Saturday is 8:30 p.m.

Campbell's Price Satisfies Dutchie

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen sold halfback Milt Campbell to Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Wednesday for an unstated sum. The move ends two weeks of wrangling.

President Bill Roberts Jr. of the Ontario Rugby Football Union said the price paid for Campbell's release was "most satisfactory" and that he expected good relations to be restored between the two clubs at a meeting after the present season.

Calgary Rink Best In Land?

CALGARY (CP) — A 24-sheet curling rink, believed to be the largest in North America, was opened Wednesday at the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede grounds.

It is housed on the ground floor of the $2,000,000 Big Four general exhibitions building opened at last summer's Stampede. Plans call for an additional 24 sheets on the second storey.

WANTED: ONE MANAGER WITH BIG LEAGUE TIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Field manager Charlie Metro, who guided Vancouver Mounties to two Pacific Coast League second-place finishes in his three years with the club, was given his outright release Thursday.

Metro asked for the release from club president Nat Bailey, after a delay in clarification of Metro's future.

Executives of the Vancouver baseball club have been waiting until they can negotiate a working agreement with a major league club before naming a general manager and field manager. Former general manager Cedric Tallis has taken up the same post with Seattle Rainiers. When he left the Mounties, he took the Vancouver working agreement with Baltimore Orioles with him.

AL's TOP MANAGER

For Once, Gay Senior Better Than Second

NEW YORK (AP) — Al Lopez blended the Chicago White Sox speed and good pitching with his own managerial experience and know-how to end the four-year American League pennant domination of Casey Stengel and the New York Yankees.

Largely because he helped bring the first flag in 40 years to Chicago's south side, Lopez today was voted the American League manager of the year for 1959 in the Associated Press annual poll.

The gay senior from Tampa, Fla., won by an overwhelming majority in the balloting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. He collected 159 votes, with Joe Gordon of Cleveland polling 12 and Jimmy Dykes of Detroit the remaining three.

Lopez, 51, is not accustomed to one-sided victories. In his nine seasons as a big-league pilot, he has had more "seconds" than a starved boarding-house tenant.

His teams, the White Sox and Indians, were runners-up seven times to Stengel's Yankees. Once in 1954, his Indians came out on top in a close race with New York.

No Pressure So Eruption Comes Early

If Toronto Maple Leafs didn't know it before, they do now—a team playing Montreal Canadiens has got to keep the pressure on every minute.

Leafs took a little time getting untracked against Canadiens Thursday night and before the game was three minutes old they had suffered their first defeat of the National Hockey League season.

It took Montreal exactly two minutes and 20 seconds to score three goals and that was enough for a 4-2 victory.

WINGS STILL WINNING

In the only other NHL game of the night, Detroit Red Wings continued to roll with a 2-1 victory over Chicago.

The victory, sparked by Alex Delvecchio's two second-period goals and another stellar goal-tending job by Terry Sawchuk, put the undefeated Wings in first place, one point ahead of Boston Bruins.

Henri Richard, Jean Beliveau and Marcel Bonin triggered the goals that beat Toronto. Dickie Moore, the league's scoring champion in last two seasons, tallied the Habs' other goal—his first of the current campaign.

Frank Mahovlich and Bob Pulford scored for Leafs.

BELIVEAU STARS

Beliveau, who came down with a mild attack of flu Wednesday and was a doubtful starter until shortly before game time, was the winners' big gun. Besides collecting his first goal of the year, the all-star center set up two more for a three-point effort.

Both Jacques Plante of the Canadiens and Johnny Bower of the Leafs had a busy night in goal. Bower blocked 38 drives, 19 of them in the first period. Plante stopped 36, 13 in the first and 14 in the last.

Billy Hicke, Canadiens' lone newcomer this year, got his first two big league points—both assists—and played stand-out hockey.

At Detroit, the Wings spotted the Black Hawks a second-period tally, then came back on Delvecchio's pair to win their third game.

SAVED BY SAWCHUK

Sawchuk has been the big difference in all Detroit games so far.

The agile netminder has allowed but four goals in four games. His teammates have only scored nine in that span—lowest in the league so far. He turned away 15 shots Thursday night in a hectic third period and 29 for the game. Chicago's Glen Hall was even busier, stopping 33.

The only shot that eluded Sawchuk was Hull's rebound at 12:43 of the second period. Delvecchio tied it up 43 seconds later and scored the winner at 19:05 of the same period.

All teams take a breather tonight but on Saturday Boston is at Toronto and New York visits Montreal.

Rangers and Canadiens return to New York Sunday night while Boston plays at Chicago and Toronto is at Detroit.

Solons Buy Clapp

YAKIMA (AP) — Roger Clapp, one of the winningest in 1959 pitchers with 24 victories, has been purchased by Sacramento Solons of the Pacific Coast League from Yakima Bears of the Northwest League.

"We are looking to enhance the over-all prestige of our operation. It might, however, be hard to sell at least two of our clubs on the theory that they can do better than capacity. Montreal and Toronto have all their seats sold every year before the season starts. I'm certain they would have to do a lot of thinking before making any changes in the present setup."

Rumors of westward expansion of the NHL arose last month following the first appearance of a big league hockey club in Los Angeles by the New York Rangers. In two exhibition games against Vancouver of the Western League in the new 16,000 sports arena, the Rangers played before a half-full house each time.

"I was very favorably impressed with those attendance figures," said Campbell, "particularly in view of the fact that baseball was the big thing out there at the time. I understand they have a wonderful building for hockey. However, I don't believe the capacity in the San Francisco building is up to our standards."

The Cow Palace in San Francisco seats about 12,000.

NO EXPANSION FOR FEW YEARS YET

'Wait a Little Longer'

NEW YORK (AP)—Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, Thursday threw a damper on speculation that his six-team circuit would expand to the west coast in 1960 or 1961.

"I realize that Los Angeles and San Francisco would present a natural rivalry," said Campbell.

"But so far no responsible persons in those cities have indicated any interest. There are also many scheduling problems that would have to be resolved."

Lions Facing Difficult Task

B.C. Lions are ready to halt a skid that threatens to foul their hopes of clinching a playoff for the first time in Western Interprovincial Football Union history.

Coach Wayne Robinson's Lions, tied with Calgary Stampede for the third and last playoff spot, must win their two weekend games to remain in serious contention.

Lions' position today is quite a change from a few weeks ago when they were challenging Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the lead. They've lost three of their last four games and a double victory is what Robinson needs most at the moment.

It won't be easy.

START AT WINNIPEG

For one thing, Bombers are never "easy." And, playing at home this Saturday night, makes Winnipeg twice as difficult to deal with.

Monday's game is against Saskatchewan Roughriders. The Riders, on the basis of a 1-10 won-lost record, seem meek enough but the truth of the matter is that they're desperate and hungry enough to be considered just as dangerous as the Bombers.

Each of the league's five clubs, except Calgary Stampede, has three games left.

Second place Edmonton Eskimos take on Stampeders in Calgary in Saturday's other game.

Eskimos need one more win to clinch a playoff spot.

Eskimos meet Bombers in Edmonton Monday when the Lions play in Regina.

HOMER DOUBTFUL

Lions have a couple of manpower problems. Defensive half Sonny Homer still is limping as a result of a badly bruised foot. Coach Wayne Robinson hopes to take Homer on the weekend road trip as the 29th man, but it is unlikely that Homer will see action.

Offensive end Bruce Claridge has come down with the flu, but otherwise the club is in good shape, Robinson said.

"Last Saturday against Edmonton, particularly in the first half, we looked really bad," he added.

"They had us in a hole and we looked disorganized because we were making one offensive mistake after another. But I think the kids are convinced they can do the job this weekend."

WAYNE ROBINSON... big weekend ahead

Nose-Diving Als On Grid Hot Seat

By The Canadian Press

The nose-diving Montreal Alouettes face a do-or-die situation Saturday in the Big Four football league.

Riddled with injuries and deep in a six-game losing slump, the once-mighty Alouettes meet Argonauts at Toronto with their hopes for a playoff berth riding on the outcome.

With three games left in the Big Four's 14-game schedule, the situation looks like this: Hamilton Tiger-Cats have clinched first place with 18 points on a 9-2 record. Ottawa Rough Riders are next with 10 points and Toronto and Montreal are tied at eight.

TWO WITH TICATS

Only one of Alouettes' final three games is at home and after Saturday they face two with Hamilton. Argonauts have two home games left, including Saturday's, and finish up their schedule against Rough Riders.

In Saturday's other Big Four action the Tiger-Cats visit Ottawa.

The Alouettes haven't missed a playoff berth since 1952 and have been in the Grey Cup three times since. They dominated the league until the Tiger-Cats' rise to power in 1957.

The Alouette injury problem was aggravated by the loss of Joel Wells, the club's top ground-gainer this season, who suffered a badly bruised shoulder last weekend. Already out were star end Hal Patterson, linemen Ted Elsbey and Bob Geary.

At least three imports are expected to make their debut with Als. Curt Lauke, Hawaiian tackle obtained from British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union; Milt Campbell, recently purchased from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, and Wes Gideon, who did some quarter-backing in pre-season exhibitions.

This Bishop Is More Than Just a Pawn

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Charlie Bishop continues to stand out in a sport where brawn is considered a vital asset.

This is not to suggest that Charlie hasn't any muscle. He has. That is he has as much as any 165-pounder would care to display, but his five-foot-eight-inch frame generally appears out of proportion when you stand him up against the usual behemoths that tread on football fields.

Because of his size, noteworthy feats by the Victoria Drake backfielder please football writers who, at times, must attempt to glamorize this game of knocks, blocks and passes.

To the writers and to the fans who pay good money to be pleased, Bishop is a modern and localized version of David. In this modern and unabridged version of gladiators and giant-killers, Pacific Coast Conference linemen are the Goliaths.

Bishop's latest feat worthy of mention was his performance against Vancouver Columbian last weekend. It has been recounted before, but for those who may have missed an edition this week, the 23-year-old backfielder experienced one of his finest hours in football. Although he failed to score any points, Bishop was the best of an impressive Victoria backfield which trampled Columbian 20-0 in the mud and rain at Vancouver. He personally accounted for 100 of Drakes' 171 total yards gained rushing.

Jack Knows Which Defence Is Best

Bishop's heroics, which must be added, came at the expense of a team that Drake coach Jack Patrick regards as the "second-best defensive" club in the conference. Patrick prefers to believe his own Drakes are the best.

But there's more to Charlie's derring-do than just a single victory. To Patrick, the "arrival" of Bishop raises Drakes' hopes for a Canadian championship to a new plateau.

Bishop, who in the past carried most of the load for the now-defunct Vampires, looked like only an average back in Victoria's first three or four games. That, by Patrick's own admission,

"He was having a little trouble with his timing and finding the holes in the line."

"Now his timing is down pat. You couldn't find a better back for our off-tackle plays."

"So now I've got the best intermediate backfield in the country," added Patrick. And he said it without a trace of a blush.

That's what Bishop's performance last weekend means to Patrick.

"The best intermediate backfield in the country" contains Bishop, Ken Higgs, Gordie Hemmingway, Leroy Bond, roolsee Ross Fitzgerald, Don Hendry, Red White, George Wilson, Neil Clarke and Pat Moon.

Oh, yes, and Jack Patrick, quarterback!

Ross the Rookie Pleasant Surprise

Higgs, Hendry, White, Wilson and Hemmingway are Drakes' proven front-line holdovers. Bond, who, like Bishop, joined Drakes this year after Vampires disbanded, has proven to be a valuable asset.

The surprise of the lot is Fitzgerald, a rookie up from junior ranks who holds down the flanker's spot and also is Patrick's understudy at quarterback.

"Every time I look at Fitzgerald," says Patrick, "I'm amazed. He never makes a wrong move."

"Any four of my backs," Patrick added, "could be good enough to bring Victoria a Canadian championship if they played their best form. I've got eight backs on a par with each other. When one doesn't play as well as he can, I've got another man on the bench who will do the job I want."

It was at this point that Patrick, executive managing director of football advertising, chose to bring up the matter of Saturday's exhibition game with Seattle Ramblers.

"It's not an exhibition as far as we're concerned. This game means a lot to our players."

"The boys like to play good teams, and the Ramblers are good."

You heard that from Patrick, so what more is there to say other than the fact that Saturday's contest at Royal Athletic Park starts at 8:15 p.m.?

San Francisco Workhorses Tops in ERA

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Jones, 21-game winner for the San Francisco Giants, captured the 1959 National League earned-run championship with a 2.82 average.

The toothpick-chewing right-hander shaded teammate Stu Miller, the defending titlist. Miller posted a 2.64 ERA mark according to figures compiled by The Associated Press.

Jones, who pitched a seven-inning no-hitter against St. Louis in his final start, gave up 85 earned runs in 168 frames. He led a year ago with 247.

Both Jones and Miller were workhorses for the Giants. Sad Sam appeared in 50 games, starting and relieving, and had four shutouts. Miller, used mainly in relief, had an 8-7 won-lost record in 59 games.

Bring Out Whips, Boss Tells Refs

WINNIPEG (CP)—A shoving and punching fracas at an eastern football game in Hamilton last Monday has resulted in football commissioner G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg issuing a get-tough order to Big Four officials.

Halter said that orders went out Wednesday to referee Hap Shouldice to make sure that the officials bear down so there won't be a repetition of the ill-feeling getting as high as it did in the Toronto-Hamilton game.

Argonauts' Bobby Kuntz and Tiger-Cats' Don Paquette were ejected from the game for fighting in the final minutes.

Most players on the field and several spectators got into the melee, which apparently was the result of ill-feeling earlier in the contest.

Halter slapped a $150 fine on Kuntz and a $50 fine on Paquette.

Kuntz received the largest fine for his conduct after receiving the match penalty.

THAT SUM WILL SOOTHE ANY AMATEUR

GENEVA, Ill. (AP)—An Olympic star polevaulter is suing for $125,500 over the use of his picture on television.

The suits filed Thursday by Donald Laz of Urbana, are against Columbia Broadcasting System, Ford-Motor Company, Rock Island Broadcasting Company and Greater Rockford Television, Inc.

Laz maintains that the Ed Sullivan show used for commercial purposes a picture of him polevaulting. His suits contend that his amateur standing was seriously jeopardized.

'Dirty Cargo' Blamed

LIVERPOOL, Eng. (Reuters)—A wildcat strike started by a dispute over handling a "dirty cargo" from Vancouver spread to 5,000 men today at the Liverpool docks.

Officials said 434 ships were at a standstill and six undermanned. Another 36 ships were being fully handled and more than 3,300 dockers were still at work.

The strike, which started four days ago, is in sympathy with 130 men who walked off the 8,607-ton Danish freighter Poona after being refused extra pay for handling what they alleged was dirty cargo—bags of dicalite brought from Vancouver.

Dicalite is used for cleaning materials and the bags carry a printed warning that its silica content could be harmful if handled over a long period.

The Transport and General Workers Union with 1,300,000 members, is opposing the strike.

AUTO WORKERS' UNION CHIEFS GET PAY BOOST

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The United Auto Workers' convention has given president Walter P. Reuther and other officers pay raises based on a formula which the union considers non-inflationary.

The convention Thursday voted by a substantial margin 3 per cent salary increases each year for the next three years. In the auto industry, UAW members get comparable increases each year. They are based on the theory that the industry's productivity increases about 3 per cent each year.

Reuther gets $22,000 a year.

64-OUNCE MILK MUST GO BY DEC. 15

Carton Deadline Extended

Effective date for the ban against 64-ounce milk cartons was extended to Dec. 15 by the provincial cabinet Thursday to permit the Saanich farmers' Milky Way Dairy to exhaust present stocks.

Agriculture Minister Newton Steacy advised dairy manager Henry Robinson the use of imperial measure cartons only may be used after that time.

"The condemned man has received a stay of execution," commented Mr. Robinson.

He said he could announce no further plans at this time.

RETURN MACHINE

Mr. Steacy suggested the dairy return its cartoning machine to the United States suppliers. There the 64-ounce container is recognized as a half-gallon. In Canada, the half-gallon is 80 ounces in weight. The minister felt the two-month period of grace would give the dairy time to install equipment suited to imperial measures.

He had explained earlier the ban against the Saanich dairy cartons was meant as a protection for housewives who might purchase it in the mistaken belief they were getting an imperial half-gallon of milk.

Use This Home Recipe Plan to Lose Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky unsightly fat right in your own home. Use this recipe plan yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full twice a day and follow the Naran plan.

If your first purchase does not show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Charles Van Doren vs. Herbert Stempel on "21."

'FIND THAT FIX QUIZ BETTER THAN ORIGINAL

By SAUL PETT
NEW YORK (AP)—In the opinion of this drama fan, the television networks ought to rerun the old quiz shows.

They could title the series, "Find That Fix."

Recent testimony about rigged shows, handy answers and coached emotional responses give the old quiz games more excitement than they held originally.

For example, Twenty-One, on the night of Dec. 5, 1956, it was on this show that Herbert Stempel, according to his recent testimony, took his dive to Charles Van Doren, the campus charmer. His downfall, Stempel said, was all planned down to the last puzzled scratch of his chin.

I have just studied the film of that show. It's fascinating.

OSCAR MAYBE

If both Van Doren and Stempel were acting as Stempel implied, I'd have to give the nod to Van Doren as the better actor. He had the biggest emotional scenes—the worried looks, the knitted brows, the chin-scratching, the face-patting, the indecision, the tension, the anguish.

On face-patting with a handkerchief, I'd say Van Doren was ahead by at least 3 to 1. On hair-rumpling, Stempel led by at least a dozen strands.

But Stempel's gestures lacked spontaneity. When he scratched his chin in what was supposed to be deep, tense thought, his index finger came up tentatively, groped, then slowly settled on his chin without much conviction.

At the end, when Stempel had just lost $20,000, he failed to build his scene. Van Doren seemed more shaken. Stempel in a new game, Van Doren appeared about as disconsolate as a man who had just lost an old bus transfer.

The scoring throughout was stirring.

Stempel, the defending champ, grabbed an early lead, 16 to 0 in points. Then Stempel stumbled while Van Doren closed the gap to 11 to 10. And suddenly, by the middle of the show, it was tied up at 21 all.

Then, with only minutes to go grabbed an 8-point lead, held it stubbornly and streaked home the winner breathless, modest but victorious.

Somewhat there was just enough time left to congratulate the winner, console the loser and get in the last commercial.

Stempel lost on two questions—the answers to which he has since testified, he knew as well as his own name.

TEN MISSING IN N. MANITOBA

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ten persons are missing in three different parts of northern Manitoba, RCMP reported today.

Police said seven, whose identities were not available, were fishermen who were last seen on Cedar Lake, north of The Pas. Police said the men were in an aluminum boat equipped with a large motor and towing two other boats.

Suit Dismissed

VANCOUVER (CP)—A suit brought by four seamen against the Seafarers' International Union Inc. and its officers over their expulsion from the union was dismissed Wednesday in Supreme Court.

At the same time, Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson criticized the SIU committee hearing which led to the expulsion.

Mr. Justice Wilson also dismissed a suit by the men—Ernest Jurak, Donald Alarie, Arthur Palmer and Bill Thompson—against the British Yukon Navigation Ltd. for damages for firing them after they were expelled from the union.

The men were expelled after they joined the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), now in the midst of a bitter jurisdictional battle with the SIU over control of west coast seamen.

The expulsion followed a SIU trial committee hearing which the men did not attend.

Rocket Salvo to Clutter Space

By VERN HAUGLAND

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States plans to fire a salvo of 10 research rockets some as high as 1,000 miles during one week in November. Three of the shots will be in Canada.

The 10 launchings will be the U.S. contribution to International Rocket Week, Nov. 16 to 22.

The research rockets will include four from Wallops Island, Va., one possibly to light the whole eastern seaboard with a sodium fire.

There will be three from Fort Churchill, Man., on Hudson Bay, two from Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., and one from White Sands, N.M.

The rocket series is the highlight of the U.S. program for International Geophysical Cooperation—1959 (IGC-59). This is a continuation of the International Geophysical Year of 1957-58. The National Academy of Sciences announced the plans Thursday night.

The IGC-59 program ranges from pole to pole.

In the Arctic basin a new floating ice station has been established to take the place of one shut down last November because of ice deterioration. It joins a station on Fletcher's Ice Island, which is making carbon dioxide and solar radiation measurements.

In Antarctica, a biological laboratory has been set up to study the common cold, among other things.

A total of 478 IGC stations are being operated by the U.S. and 205 more in co-operation with other countries.

In co-operation with Canadian scientists, the army ballistic research laboratories will send up two Nike-Cajun rockets from Fort Churchill to determine the water vapor content of the atmosphere 18 to 60 miles above the earth.

Also at Fort Churchill the air force geophysics research directorate will send a magnetometer aloft in an Aerobee research rocket to measure the earth's magnetic field.

UNDER NEW PLAN

Hospital Planning 'Aged' Wing

Construction of a new wing for aged patients is under consideration by directors of George Road Hospital.

Mrs. Florence Mutrie, administrator of the chronic care hospital, revealed the possibility Thursday when she welcomed an announcement that BCHIS benefits may be extended to chronic patients next year.

The announcement was made by B.C. Health Minister Eric Martin. He said the plan would depend on ability of communities to provide facilities.

Mrs. Mutrie said the BCHIS extension "is what we have been hoping for for a long time."

About half of the hospital's patients would qualify for the benefits.

Mrs. Mutrie added that an influx of chronic patients is expected when the BCHIS coverage is inaugurated and this could make a new wing necessary.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher, medical chief of St. Joseph's Hospital, said the added BCHIS coverage would stimulate construction of chronic care facilities but for the present, St. Joseph's Hospital is concentrating on construction of additional regular hospital bed facilities.

Orcas Island Ferry Cancelled

Ferry service by Washington State Ferries to and from Orcas Island will be cancelled for one day only Tuesday next. The company has announced.

Cancellation is due to work on the Orcas ferry terminal and will not affect service on the balance of the Sidney-Anacortes route.

Blaney's Travel Service is Victoria agent for WSF.

PRINCE GEORGE—RCMP intend to crack down on commercial Sunday sport and various types of lotteries in the Prince George area.

Staff Sgt. J. A. Knox, head of District 37 which has unsolicited RCMP here, announced his decision Thursday night. He said city council has been informed of the move.

Scheduled for close scrutiny are lotteries held by local stores, bingos and Sunday shows at local drive-ins.

Sports which will be affected are the Cariboo Hockey League, stock car racing, baseball, softball and lacrosse.

Mr. Atkinson, board chairman here, said requests for affiliation with UBC have been given the run around and the bid to obtain University of Alberta support was made in hopes of action.

George Copley Leads Esquimalt Graduates

Esquimalt High School Thursday night honored its top 1959 graduates at an annual fall awards assembly. The seven scholarship winners also walked off with provincial government bursaries that will pay up to half of their university tuition fees this year.

School Trustee R. H. Reeve congratulated the leading graduate, George Copley, who won the $150 Women's Canadian Club scholarship and also received a slide rule prize from the Association of Professional Engineers.

Other honors awarded during the ceremony included: B.C. Forest Products Limited $300 scholarship to Daniel Brown and Sandra Johnstone; Esquimalt High School PTA $100 award to JoAnn Erickson; Esquimalt Lions Club $100 scholarship to John Emery; PTA Council award of $100 to Fern Abbott; and Esquimalt chapter of the IOOE $75 award to Frances Chapman.

GOVERNOR HOLDS KILLER'S FATE

'I'll Do a Lot of Praying'

CARYL CHESSMAN

EDMUND G. BROWN
... "Roman holiday."

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "That's it and I'll do a lot of praying." With those words Governor Edmund G. Brown closed a three-hour clemency hearing Thursday that may mean life or death for Caryl Chessman.

Brown opposes capital punishment. And he spoke of the scheduled execution of the 38-year-old convict a week from today as a "Roman holiday."

But the governor gave no hint whether he'll commute the death sentence to life behind bars — without hope of parole — or let Chessman die in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Chessman was convicted in 1948 as a Los Angeles "Lovers' lane" bandit who forced two girls into acts of sexual depravity.

New Zoning Bylaw Backed

Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association Thursday unanimously approved a residential zoning bylaw initiated by Saanich Council to protect property values in the Ten Mile Point, Gordon Head and adjoining waterfront areas.

It regulates the size of building lots and the floor areas of homes to be built in the districts.

Reeve George Chatterton ordered preparation of the bylaw after receiving requests from homeowners for some protection against "jerry builders" and commercial development in residential areas.

It has yet to be approved by council.

At the same time ratepayers approved a Saanich town planning commission over-all plan for a commercial zone on the north side of Cadboro Bay Road between Penrhyn and Maynard Streets.

But they were opposed to the commercial development scheme as proposed by Kelly Douglas Ltd., which is seeking to establish a 12,000-square-foot food market in the area.

The company's plan included a service station on Cadboro Bay Road backing on Maynard Park.

Town planner Tony Parr was against this aspect of the company's plan, and proposed as an alternative a community hall or apartment block for the site.

Mr. Parr also recommended that if a food market was allowed in the area adequate parking facilities should be provided.

The meeting decided to table until later a discussion on the question of Cadboro Bay Gordon Head areas seceding from Saanich and amalgamating with Oak Bay.

The subject was postponed at the request of chairman F. J. Leedham.

JUST ON HUNCHES

Lottery King Won a Fortune

By HAROLD TILLEY
Canadian Press Correspondent

SYDNEY (CP)—Many who followed the fortunes of an Australian curio-shop proprietor known as Harry Wizard Brukarz consider there must have been more in it than "just luck" to pick up $180,000 in prizes from state lotteries.

Yet "I'm just lucky" was his stock answer to those who asked "how do you do it?"

The stream of customers to the curio shop on Castlereagh Street, Sydney, rose and fell as Harry Brukarz's name figured among main prize winners in lottery after lottery or was temporarily absent from the list because he was out of luck or was playing a hunch for the right time to strike.

For the better part of 20 years Brukarz picked up major prizes of varying value under his own name. He might have collected others under pseudonyms and it can be taken for granted that until his run of luck he was often among winners of minor prizes for which winner's names are not published.

Apart from his curio-shop contacts, Brukarz had many friends. His jovial nature made him a friendly fellow and he was always ready for a joke, especially about lotteries.

Some of his associates believe, however, that in spite of this joviality about lotteries they meant serious business to him because he invested large sums in them.

Not so long ago he said he would write a book about his lottery dealings but before he could start it he suffered a heart attack recently while entertaining card-playing friends and died.

One of his friends reported that Brukarz developed pronounced hunches about winning prospects and spoke in advance about them. One night he said he had a strong feeling he would win the lottery to be drawn on the following day. He won the top prize.

Brukarz would not go to the lottery office for tickets because he thought that would bring bad luck. He bought as he walked from kiosks and agents dotted around Sydney—and he bought tickets in sets of fours without any regard to special numbers.

Windsor Volunteered 'The Letter'

PARIS (AP)—The Duke of Windsor Thursday revealed that he himself gave to Queen Mary's biographer a letter from his mother in which the Queen Mother criticized him for giving up the throne.

Windsor, however, would not comment on the letter or on the biography of his mother published Thursday in London.

The Duke's secretary released the following statement:

"His Royal Highness gave Mr. Pope Hennessey unrestricted access to his private papers from which he himself made the letter in question available to Mr. Hennessey for publication in his biography of Queen Mary."

The letter, kept secret for 21 years, revealed that the Queen was bitterly disappointed by Edward VIII's abdication to marry the American divorcee, Wallis Warfield Simpson, and had implored him not to do so "for our sake and for the sake of the country."

PRISONER'S BEHAVIOUR MAY AFFECT SENTENCE

Marks for Appearance in Court

EDMONTON (CP)—Criminals take note: The way you behave before the magistrate may help determine whether you are paroled from prison later.

T. George Street, chairman of the national parole board, says that Canadian magistrates are being asked to report on their impressions of defendants at the time of their trial as well as their "attitude and demeanor."

Addressing a convention of the Alberta Magistrates' Association, Mr. Street said such reports will aid the parole board in determining whether a convict's attitude changes while in prison and thus whether he deserves parole.

"For instance," Mr. Street said, "we would like to know if he was surly, defiant, insolent or if he was penitent, or if his attitude was something other than these. It is only from knowing what his attitude and demeanor at the time of the trial was that we can determine if his attitude has changed."

Mr. Street said the parole board also would be interested in knowing if "the reaction of the public towards the offence or toward the offender himself is particularly adverse."

"We would also like to know if we could something about the man's reputation in the community, his family background, his relationship with his wife, his previous work record, whether he was employed at the time of the offence, and if he is addicted to alcohol or drugs."

Mr. Street, a former Welland, Ont., magistrate, told the Alberta magistrates that he presumes they agree that there is "no sense in keeping a man in prison after it appears he has learned his lesson, and decided to reform."

However, he said he also presumes that the sentence handed down is the maximum which the magistrate considers should be served as punishment.

Subtle Varsity Racism Worse Than U.S. Sample

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the West Indian Students' Association of the University of Toronto said today that "discrimination is a common thing on the university campus."

"Until now we have always thought it best to keep matters of discrimination quiet," said 27-year-old Eugene Moore, a third-year honors art student.

He was commenting on the campus storm caused by the revelation that a Negro co-ed, Barbara Arrington, was turned down when she tried to join a sorority.

Mr. Moore said that after the Arrington incident there didn't seem to be much point in remaining close-mouthed on his experiences in discrimination.

SUBTLE SYSTEM
He described it as a "subtle" type of discrimination, "therefore more dangerous than much of the prejudice in the United States."

As examples, he said:
1. A colored male student was asked to join a fraternity last year, but later was told the members had decided it wasn't a very good idea.

SLIPPERY NOTE
NEW YORK (UPI)—Wax will not prevent the marring of furniture through excessive heat or allowing liquids to stand indefinitely.

But it does provide a protective coating that prevents absorption immediately. This allows time to wipe away the moisture before it can damage the finish.

2. A colored female student, asked to join a sorority, resigned after two "pushing" parties because she overheard that she wasn't really wanted.

3. Several colored students, told that rooms were available for the summer in residences, were turned down when they visited the rooms.

4. A student recently was called a "nigger" in a residence common room.

5. A colored girl who heard that a particular job was available at the university employment office was told there that no such job existed, and later learned a white girl had been given the job.

The university's Students' Administrative Council decided Wednesday night not to allow fraternities that practice discrimination to appear in the student social register—the university blue book.

It rejected a resolution asking U of T president Claude Bissell to expel students belonging to fraternities that are accused of racial prejudice.

Dr. Bissell was asked to sponsor a lectureship on race relations.

MISHAP-FREE RECORD ENDS

JAMES ISLAND—A record of more than 1,750,000 accident-free man-hours, probably the best ever achieved in B.C., came to an end Thursday night.

A power house attendant at the Canadian Industries Ltd. plant here suffered a minor fracture in the knee joint which will require hospitalization for about a week, according to medical authorities.

This is the first time that a lost-time accident, one involving more than the remainder of a shift, has occurred at James Island since December 1953, a total of 2,131 days, according to works manager R. B. Carpenter.

NEW SERIES

$40,000,000

British Columbia Electric Company LIMITED

(Incorporated under the laws of British Columbia)

CONVERTIBLE SINKING FUND DEBENTURES, 6% SERIES B

To be dated 1 November 1959

To mature 1 November 1984

Principal and semi-annual interest (1 May and 1 November) on the Series B Debentures shall be payable in lawful money of Canada at the holder's option at any branch in Canada of the Company's bankers. Series B Debentures in denominations of $1,000 registrable as to principal only and fully registered Debentures in denominations of $1,000 and authorized multiples thereof.

The Series B Debentures shall be redeemable at the option of the Company, in whole at any time or in part from time to time, on not less than thirty days' notice at 100% of the principal amount thereof together, in cases where redemption is made for purposes other than sinking fund, with a premium thereon commencing at 6% of such principal amount in respect of Series B Debentures redeemed up to and including 1 November, 1961 and thereafter decreasing by .30 of 1% of such principal amount for each year or portion thereof elapsed after 1 November 1961 to the date fixed for redemption until 1 November 1980, after which there shall be no premium; together in each case with accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption. When redemption is made for sinking fund purposes no premium will be payable.

A sinking fund for the Series B Debentures will be provided sufficient to retire on 1 November in each year, so long as any Series B Debentures remain outstanding, commencing on 1 November 1970, a principal amount equal to 1% of the maximum principal amount of the Series B Debentures theretofore issued. The Company will have the right to tender Series B Debentures in satisfaction, in whole or in part, of any such sinking fund payment.

CONVERTIBLE FEATURE

Each $1,000 Convertible Sinking Fund Debenture, 6% Series B, will be convertible at the holder's option at any time up to the close of business on 3 November 1969 or, if called for redemption, on the last full business day next preceding the date fixed for redemption of such Debenture, whichever is earlier, into fully paid and non-assessable Common Shares without nominal or par value of British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited as presently constituted (without adjustment for interest accrued on such Debenture or for dividends on the Common Shares of British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited issuable upon conversion) on the following basis:

Date of conversion	Number of Common Shares of British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited issuable for each $1,000 principal amount of Series B Debentures	Approximate conversion price
On or before 2 November 1963.....	27 shares	$37.04
Thereafter and on or before 1 November 1966...	25 shares	$40.00
Thereafter and on or before 3 November 1969...	23 shares	$43.48

Pursuant to the terms of an agreement to be dated as of 1 November 1959 and to be made between the Company, British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited and The Royal Trust Company as Trustee, provision will be made for the adjustment in the number of shares issuable upon conversion in the event of any consolidation or sub-division thereof or the payment in Common Shares of any dividend on the Common Shares of the Corporation. British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited will covenant in the aforementioned agreement that it will at all times reserve sufficient of its unissued Common Shares to satisfy the exercise of the right of conversion attaching to the Series B Debentures.

TRUSTEE: The Royal Trust Company

In the opinion of Counsel, the Series B Debentures will be investments in which companies registered under the Canadian and British Insurance Companies Act may, without availing themselves for that purpose of the provisions of sub-section 4 of section 63 of said Act, invest their funds or any portion thereof.

We offer, as principals, $40,000,000 principal amount of Series B Debentures if, as and when and to the extent that we purchase the Debentures and subject to issue and receipt by us thereof and to prior sale and to the approval of all legal matters by Messrs. Douglas, Symes & Brissenden, Vancouver, B.C., on behalf of British Columbia Electric Company Limited and British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited, and by Messrs. Common, Howard, Cate, Ogilvy, Bishop, Cope, Porteous & Hansard, Montreal, Que., on our behalf, who will rely upon the opinion of Counsel for British Columbia Electric Company Limited and British Columbia Power Corporation, Limited in respect of all matters of local law in British Columbia.

PRICE: 100 and accrued interest to yield 6%

It is expected that Series B Debentures in definitive form will be available for delivery on or about 5 November 1959.

A copy of the Prospectus which has been filed with the Registrar of Companies of British Columbia will be forwarded promptly upon request.

Thinking Doctors Filter Own Advice

Doctors and specialists attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association have been busy scaring the public over clinical associations between smoking and heart ailments and/or lung cancer.

Do the doctors practice what they preach? They do not. Of 50 doctors standing in the Empress Hotel lobby today:

19 were smoking cigarettes; 9 smoked cigars; 6 smoked pipes. Total: 34.

MONTE ROBERTS

The secret of being a good conversationalist is to show an intelligent interest in the affairs of other people, to ask questions, to draw out the best in the party of the second part to the conversation.

And just the other day, I encountered a master conversationalist, who held a conversation with me along these lines:

HE: Well, it is certainly nice to meet you. Yes, sir, it certainly is. I understand you are in the newspaper business?

ME: Yes.

HE: What is it like to be in the newspaper business? I have always thought it would be very interesting to be a newspaperman. Won't you tell me what it is like to be a newspaperman?

ME: Well, I would say . . .

HE: The reason I ask is, I am intensely interested in the newspaper business, and I am told you are a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time, and I have always wanted to ask a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time what it is like to be a newspaperman for a long time. What is it like to be a newspaperman for a long time?

ME: Things have changed a little, but . . .

HE: But they're just about the same, eh? Hah, hah, I knew you'd have a clever answer; people tell me you are very clever. That's why I like talking with you. I hate to appear to be a flatterer, but it certainly is an honor to talk to a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time and to be able to ask him, what it's like to be a newspaperman for a long time? Also, I would like to ask you, what does it take to be a newspaperman? I guess you need to know how to write, do you?

ME: It helps, but . . .

HE: I'm glad you said that. I knew you'd have that answer. You'd never know it, but I've often wondered what it would be like to write and be a newspaperman. I've often thought, if only I had the chance, I could write. Tell me, do you think I could write?

ME: That depends . . .

HE: Yes, you are so right. It does depend. That is what I like about talking to a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time, I can ask him what it is like, being a newspaperman for a long time. Tell me, what is it like, being a newspaperman for a long time? Do you like it?

ME: Yes.

HE: I'm sure I would like it, too. Now, answer me one question, because I am so interested in your being a newspaperman for a long time, do you think if I had had the chance to write and become a newspaperman, would I have liked being a newspaperman for a long time? I mean, newspapermen have to ask questions, and I ask questions, don't I?

ME: Yes.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Center Mountain, Happy Valley Road.

L. G. Rhodes, Tacoma, director of area 13, National Office Management Association and supervisor of office services for Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., will address the Victoria branch of NOMA Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Pacific Club. Subject of his address will be "The Office, Opportunity for Service."

Visitor to Victoria today is Leonard Walker, newly-appointed assistant general manager, Bank of Montreal. Mr. Walker is chief executive officer for the B of M in B.C. and the Yukon. He was a luncheon guest of A. E. Walters, manager of the main Victoria branch.

Prospect Lake and District Community Association will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in Prospect Lake School to discuss the school bylaw.

Col. A. L. Brady, provost marshal of the Canadian Army, will visit service units in British Columbia commencing Saturday, Oct. 24.

He will be in Victoria Oct. 27 and 28, inspecting the provost sub-detachment, and visiting the officer commanding E division, RCMP, and chief constables of Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich.

From Oct. 24 to 26, he will be at area headquarters, Vancouver, and Oct. 28 and 29 at Chilliwack.

Seventy dollars were donated to the Red Cross as a result of a charity party held last Tuesday by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club at Holyrood House.

Winners in a recent club tournament were: Eric Ware and Larry MacMillan, Otto Leese and Frank Artlett, Lillian Leebutt and Audrey Jorgensen; Velma Acres and Jack Goldie; Doug Tuck and Louis Lindholm.

J. L. Saville of Cobble Hill placed fourth among western contestants who took part in the Canadian plowing championship at Dundas, Ont., today.

He received 139 points, as against 150.5 awarded to Don Brownridge of Portage in Prairie.

The national championship was won by Robert Timbers, 32-year-old farmer from Mount Albert, Ont.

Owner Fined $15 After Ordering Biting Dog Killed

Victor Normandau, 1001 North Park, was fined $15 in city police court today for harboring a vicious dog.

Evidence showed the animal had bitten the cheek of a two-year-old child and had been destroyed on the owner's instructions.

Mr. Normandau said he had been warned by police to keep the animal tethered, which he had done, but a child had taken it for a walk.

He said he had visited the child twice and offered to pay medical expenses.

Magistrate William Ostler said a heavy penalty was not warranted since "you have acted like a good citizen, in an exemplary fashion."

Winners of the weekly tournament of Victoria Allmatters' Duplicate Bridge Club were:

1. Elizabeth Warren and Otto Leese, 2. Ethel Cleworth and Dick Lipsey, 3. Mr. and Mrs. George Beale, 4. Velma Acres and Jack Goldie, 5. Frank Annis and Cam Wallace.

Esquimalt Community Club will hold its Thanksgiving tea in the hall, corner of Sturdy and Esquimalt Road, Monday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

The Dale Carnegie Alumni Association will hold its next meeting on Monday at 7:45 p.m. in the Black Ball Ferry Building.

Burglary committed Wednesday night was incorrectly reported by the Times as taking place at "Island Engravers," 1124 Blanshard Street, which is the address of Island Blue Print and Map Co., where about $30 was taken.

Readings from "David Copperfield" will be given at the monthly meeting of the Dickens Fellowship, Victoria branch, to be held at the home of E. F. Wetherston, president, 565 Marfield, next Monday at 8 p.m. Mr. Wetherston and H. W. Maunsell, vice-president, will speak.

TONS OF FALLEN SUMMER SHADE START ARMY OF RAKERS MARCHING

We're All 'Fall Guys' on the Leaf Front

By TONY DICKASON

From here on in until mid-November Greater Victoria rakes will be active.

This seemingly evil concept is due entirely to the little twisted bits of a past summer, scuffing underfoot, playthings of the breezes.

Leaves. . . . The tons of fallen summer shade provide headaches this time of year for municipal work crews and weekend gardeners.

Many home owners don't know what to do with their leaves. Some shove them into the gutter and wait for municipal employees to pick them up.

This is illegal. Proper method of leaf disposal is to burn them, either on your own property in an outside blaze, or in an approved incinerator-drum, with a grill cover.

All municipalities require fire permits for this, although persons who have permits governing incinerator operations are covered.

Oak Bay has the greatest leaf problem.

With mighty oaks, and other trees, the municipality years ago found that men with rakes were about as efficient as rakes used to eliminate snowflakes.

Back about 1945 a "leaf sucker" was built for $1,000. It is a tank 10 feet long and six feet high to which a goose-necked vacuum arrangement is attached. Powered by a jeep motor, the "sucker" gobbles up gutter leaves with the appetite of an anteater.

Currently undergoing its annual overhaul, the machine will be working in about a week, preceded by a crew that will strip boulevards of their autumn coat.

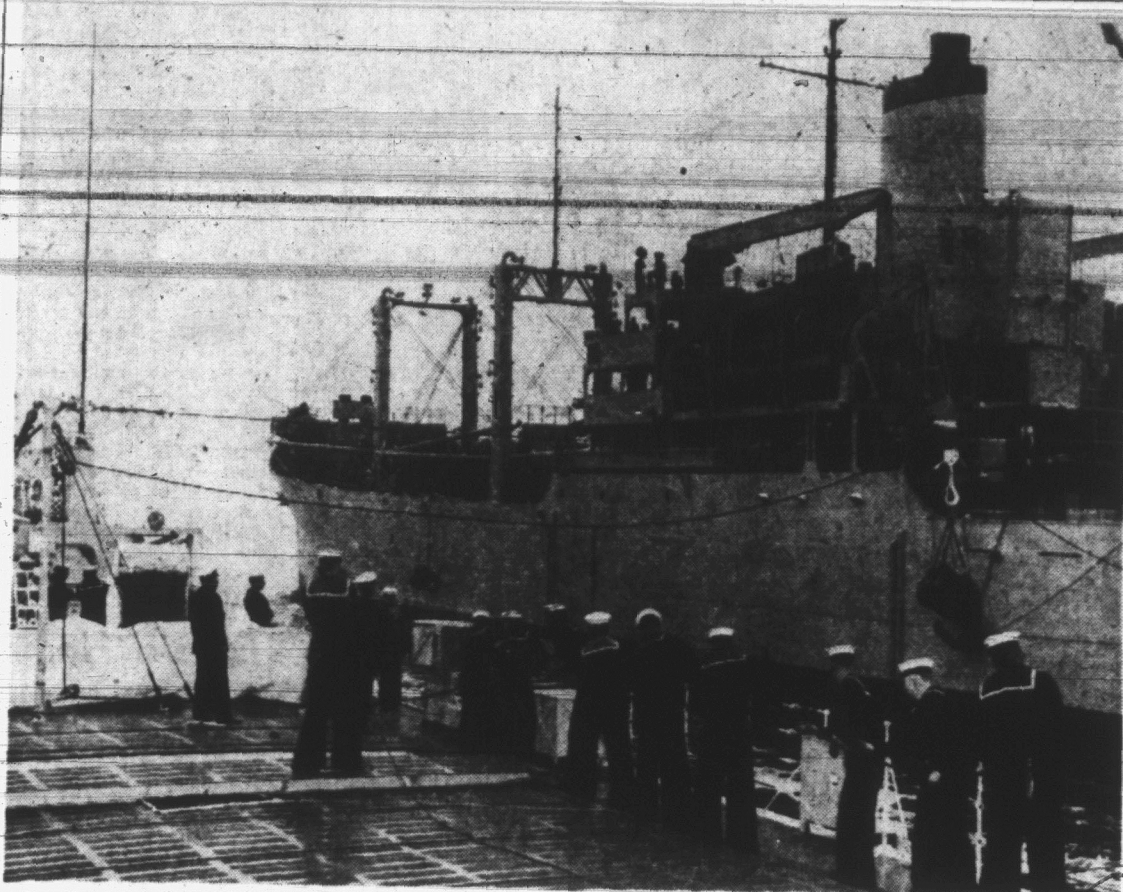

Road sweepers do a similar job in the city, picking up leaves raked off boulevards by workmen.

The city parks department, which at one time put all leaves in a compost heap in

Beacon Hill Park, now utilizes a "mulcher" attached to a rotary mower which chops leaves into tiny bits right on the spot. They stay on the grass and quickly become soil.

The "mulcher" is not used in all parks, however, and the city estimates that from 800 to 1,000 cubic yards of compost is piled up each year by the Beacon Hill nursery.

Golf courses are raking grass all the time, and at this time of year leaves are just part and parcel of the job.

MUCH AS A HOUSEWIFE borrows a cup of sugar from a neighbor, neighboring navies trade supplies in demonstration of underway replenishment in Pu-

5-YEAR TERM FOR ASSAULT ON YOUNGSTER

Rex Howard, 39, no fixed address, formerly of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was sentenced in Assize Court today to five years in the penitentiary for indecent assault upon a child under the age of 14 years.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan said that unless Howard made an effort to overcome his "personality problem" while in penitentiary, steps might be taken to have him permanently removed from society.

It was disclosed in court that Howard had a criminal record.

Howard, a married man with a family, was tried by a jury which included two women. Jurors recommended that psychiatric treatment be made available to him in prison.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said if Howard did overcome his problem, he (the justice) would do all he could to expedite his release from penitentiary.

USN, RCN DEMONSTRATION

Transit Men See Mobile Refueling

An impressive public demonstration of the close working alliance between the United States and Canadian navies was carried out in Puget Sound waters this week.

Two Esquimalt-based destroyer escorts joined with USN units to show how underway replenishment works.

Observers were 1,100 delegates to the annual convention in Seattle of the National Transportation Association, a civil-military group concerned with operating the United States' yearly $3,000,000,000 budget for military transport.

REFUELING

The delegates went to sea Tuesday aboard a fleet of U.S. ships, to watch refueling and supplying of fighting ships by naval auxiliaries.

Representing Canada were HMC ships Assiniboine and Fraser. In company with the U.S. destroyers USS Brinkley Bass and Watts, the Canadian ships took on fuel, while underway, from the USN tanker Manatee.

They then took aboard supplies — still while underway — from the USN stores ship Pictor.

The demonstration was carried out to show, on a reduced scale, how a fleet replenishment — at sea — would work under operating conditions.

The U.S. ships were units of Task Group 16.4, whose concept is to provide mobile logistic support for fighting ships. Their job is to provide maximum support for forces afloat with minimum support required from advanced shore bases.

FULL SUPPORT

The ideal of mobile logistic support has been stated as "complete support from afloat units." At present, U.S. naval forces operating away from the continental United States obtain more than 80 per cent of their needs through mobile logistic support.

Leading a group of Pacific Command staff officers who attended the Seattle convention was Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, commander, maritime defence command, Pacific, and flag officer, Pacific Coast.

SUDBURY II WAITS OUT 'CHARLOTTE'

The Victoria deep-sea tow-boat Sudbury II is to move to three days away from Japan, waiting out Typhoon Charlotte which is bearing down on the tug with winds up to 95 knots.

Sudbury II has two Liberty ships from San Francisco in tow. Her master, Capt. Harley Blagborne, of Victoria, had expected to reach Yokohama Monday, but today messaged the owners, Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

"Delayed. Waiting typhoon to pass."

An Island Tug spokesman said today the typhoon is registering 50 knots wind over a 75 mile radius, 30 knots over a 200 mile radius, and 95 knots in the "eye" of the typhoon.

He said Sudbury II is in a position similar to that of her sister ship, Cambrian Salvor, a month ago. At that time the typhoon veered off and Salvor was able to proceed safely.

TWO MORE TOWS

Island Tug, now firmly in the trans-Pacific towing business, has two more major tows scheduled.

The tug Sudbury I is at San Francisco, preparing to tow a war-surplus "baby flat-top" to a rendezvous with Sudbury II in the Hawaiian Island area. Sudbury II will complete the tow to Japan.

The third trans-Pacific tow-boat, Cambrian Salvor, is finishing a refit at Victoria and will leave late next week with a Liberty ship, now at Ogden Point, in tow. Salvor will go to San Francisco, add a small aircraft carrier to her tow, then cross to Japan.

Bookbinder's Funeral Set

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 1 p.m. at McCall's for Richard Foster, 46, secretary of the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, who died in hospital here Wednesday.

Born in Victoria, he had been a member of the union for 23 years, and secretary since 1945. He was also a member of the A.O.F.

Surviving are the widow, Caroline, at home, 2021 Carnarvon; a son, David Richard, at home; a daughter, Mrs. D. Cullimore, Sidney; a brother, Bessie, Rhoda and Elsie, all in Victoria.

'Hoggish' Driver Jailed

5-Year Suspension After Fatal Crash

Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan in Assize Court here today described a Victoria motorist found guilty of criminal negligence as "selfish and hoggish with a complete disregard for human life."

He sentenced Glen Lageri, 1052 Mason, to two months in Oakalla Prison, fined him $500 and cancelled his driver's licence for five years.

Lageri was found guilty by a jury Wednesday of driving his car in a criminal manner which resulted in a violent two-car crash on Douglas at Cloverdale just before midnight May 16.

Sickness Insurance For Aged

B.C. Medical Services Incorporated (MSI) had good news today for people over 65 who lack sickness insurance.

Dr. D. S. Munroe, president of MSI, told the organization's annual meeting in the Empress Hotel the group plans to offer pre-paid medical coverage to persons over 65 for a short test period next spring.

Final cost has yet to be worked out by actuaries but Dr. Munroe estimated it at $3 per month for a single person, $6 for couples.

The plan would offer persons services similar to MSI's limited coverage scheme. This covers accidents and surgery but not home or office calls.

Applications will be accepted over a 10-day to two-week period next spring. The first applications will form a "test basis" for MSI and allow it to determine whether such a classification is practical, said Dr. Munroe.

SOME BENEFITS

The fees are comparable to MSI's limited coverage schedule where employees-employers share the cost of $2 single fees and $5.50 fees for married couples and dependents.

TURNING

Mrs. Edna Dorothy Bereth, 31, of 1711 Mortimer, received fatal injuries. The Bereth car was going south on Douglas turning on to Cloverdale, and Lageri was driving north on Douglas.

Witnesses testified that Lageri was travelling at a high rate of speed, between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

Lageri claimed he was travelling at about 30 miles an hour. "SNUFFED OUT"

The trial justice lashed out at the 23-year-old motorist. "You snuffed out the life of a young married woman," he said. "You were traveling at a high rate of speed with an utter disregard for the safety of others."

The judge reminded the prisoner the charge of criminal negligence carried with it a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

BY CHRISTMAS

But, he said, in view of the jury's recommendation for leniency, he was sending him (Lageri) to Oakalla for two months so he could be back with his family by Christmas. "But I'm going to prohibit you from driving on public highways anywhere in Canada for five years," he said.

Ban on Hunting Predicted In North Saanich District After Pellets Hit Children

An incensed Deep Cove mother today predicted action will be taken to restrict hunting in the North Saanich area as a result of her son and two other children having been hit Thursday by spent shotgun pellets.

"I don't know what procedure will be followed," said Mrs. J. C. Graham, 11105 Chaleet Road, "but I'm pretty positive something will be done."

The pellet hit her son, Michael.

It was removed without difficulty at Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney.

TWO OTHERS HIT

Also hit were Michael Dixon, struck by a shot that stung through his clothes, and his sister, Margot, who was bruised on the leg. Fourth member of the little group was Bobby Russell.

The children were hit while walking along Birch Road to Deep Cove School at 8:30 a.m. "I feel even more strongly about this when I recall that the children actually spoke to the hunters who fired the shots before they were hit," Mrs. Graham said. "The hunters knew the children were in the vicinity."

Mrs. William Kynaston, Tatlow Road, said Deep Cove residents live in "fear and trembling" throughout the hunting season.

"When we are sitting at breakfast we have a constant bang-bang-bang in our ears morning and night," she said. "We have lovely woods near our place but we don't dare go near them in hunting season."

ASK The TIMES

Q.—What is the declination east, of north, at Victoria. I consider this of interest to hunters in the woods. J.O.G.
A.—Magnetic north averages 24 degrees east of true north.

Q.—In obituary notices one reads "widow of the late So and So." Is that correct? Should it not read "wife of the late . . ." A.B.S.
A.—A wife becomes a widow when her husband dies.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers. ## SHOPPING GUIDE

Be Ready for Halloween—Start Shopping Now!

By PENNY SAVER

Are your children already infected by the Halloween fever? If so, you'd better get busy and shop for one of the crepe paper costumes that are on sale. Priced at 59 cents, there are costumes for legionnaires, ballerinas, cowboys, Indians, Maid Marions and Robin Hoods. Sizes range from three to nine.

Another selection, at 79 cents, is packaged in a spooky trimmed paper carrier, that will be just the thing for the all-important trick or treating. If your youngster is space-minded, there's costumes for both boys and girls. All costumes come complete with masks.

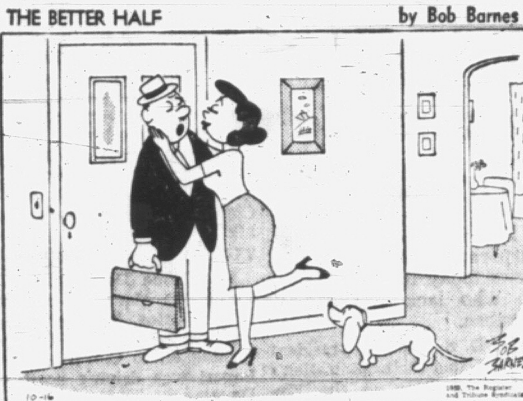

If you prefer a costume that can be used more than once you'll be interested in broadcloth costumes that sell for $1.79. Sizes range from four to 14 and you can take your choice of skeletons, Chinese princesses, clowns, pirates and Red Riding Hoods. These, too, come in trick or treat carriers.

If the party is going to be at your home you'd better pick up some of the special tablecloths and matching napkins that are selling at the same store. The 54" x 88" cloth is a mere 39 cents and you can get a package (30) of matching napkins for 25 cents.

Does your husband have difficulty transforming a pumpkin into a cheery Jack o' Lantern? Why not help him out? I saw some metal ones that you'll be able to use over and over again. In addition to Jack's infectious grin, they're decorated with vitches, black cats and other traditional figures. You can get one for 49 cents.

Is your imagination running out when it comes to planning desserts for those school lunch boxes? Why not try some local dose pears, now selling for 25 cents for two pounds. Your children will love their delicious sweetness!

Perk up your salads with lots of tomatoes and cucumbers. The last of the local field tomatoes are now selling at two pence for 25 cents while cucumbers are priced at two for 25 cents. Chards are 19 cents a pound this weekend and Brussels sprouts, 23 cents a pound.

"Save it!... Paychecks didn't arrive today!"

As Base for Whole Family

As most of you know, I am printing my Trick and Treat Diet this week. It tricks the pounds while it gives you treats in food. You can use the menus as a skeleton when planning meals for your entire family so that you do not have to plan or prepare two sets of meals, one for you and one for them.

For instance, your family can have larger helpings and can use more butter. They can drink whole milk instead of skim or powdered fat-free milk. More bread and desserts and sugar can be added to their menus. All of these seemingly minor changes add up to a big difference in calorie count.

Here are the menus for tomorrow (Saturday).

BREAKFAST

Six ounces tomato juice
Two baked or hard poached eggs, with the poacher lightly greased with butter and a dot of cheese on each egg
One piece of toast
Coffee, with one teaspoon of sugar

LUNCHEON

Broiled lean meat patty (three ounces)
One-half cup carrots
One glass skim milk
One medium apple

DINNER

Six ounces vegetable juice, two rye krispis

Four ounces lean beef
One-half cup carrots and peas, flavored with one teaspoon butter
One-half cup grapefruit sections (fresh or water-packed canned)
One small potato, baked or boiled, with salt and parsley
Eight ounces skim milk
Apple Snow (see recipe at back of booklet)

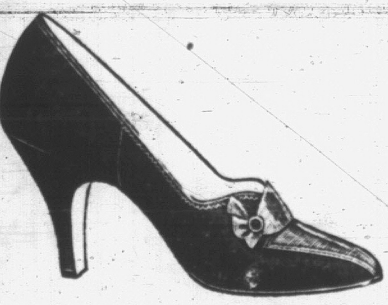

If you would like to keep my Trick and Treat Diet in your kit of first aids for the figure, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the complete Trick and Treat diet in booklet form. Address Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Guest Speaker—"In a Dental Office" was topic of guest speaker, T. C. Moulds, at recent meeting of Victoria Dental Assistants' Association in Strathcona Hotel. President, Mrs. G. Fulton, presided.

Guest Speaker—"Small Beginnings" was topic of talk given by Miss Alice L. Wright, executive secretary of Registered Nurses' Association of British Columbia at a recent meeting of Greater Victoria District RNABC. She traced development of the RNABC, the Canadian Nurses' Association and International Council of Nurses from their beginnings as small groups. She noted that in each case, a small group of industrious, farseeing nurses had laid the foundations for the present day organization.

Nylons Wanted

Stop! Don't throw those old nylons out. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind has issued an appeal for discarded stockings to be used by the blind for stuffing cotton animals. Animals are being made for a fall bazaar to be held in mid-November. If you have stockings, they can be left at the CNIB Institute, 1609 Blanshard Street. Donors put their name, address and telephone number on the outside of the parcels.

DEAR ABBY...

He's on the Right Track, Sis!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My brother has a newspaper route and he has a lady on his route who is 82 years old. She gets lots of nuts and candy and a bushel of apples from Seattle at Christmas and she has no teeth so she gives this stuff to my brother. Only she gives it to him in June or July.

The chocolates are wormy and melted and the nuts are not crunchy any more and the apples are rotten. Then she asks my brother how it was and he has to lie and say fine.

My brother says she forgets she has this stuff, so I said he ought to remind her in January. He says it is bad manners. What do you say?

DEAR SIS: Your brother is right. It is bad manners to "remind" a person to give you something. Your brother should accept what she offers, when she offers it. Pretend to be pleased. And then take it home and throw it out.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem mother. If a letter comes to me when I am at school it is always opened by the time I get home. Mother says that Jimmy opened it before she could stop him. (Jimmy is my four-year-old brother.) Or else she says she tore it open before she looked to see who it was to. I have nothing to hide but don't you think a girl my age deserves some privacy?

I am 14. NO PRIVACY. DEAR NO: Your mother can't use these excuses, too many more times without making herself appear very foolish. Ask her please to sort the mail carefully and put yours out of Jimmy's reach. Wise mothers build better relationships with their daughters by respecting their privacy.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, 67 years old. I have been keeping company with a lady 10 years younger than myself for the past four years. I think a great deal of her and she of me. I am afraid to ask her to marry me because people might think I am an old fool to get married at my age. What do you think? LONELY.

DEAR LONELY: I think if you DON'T get married because you are afraid people might think you are an "old fool," you will prove that you ARE.

etiquette-books and can't find the answer to my question anywhere.

When you are invited to a party, is it proper to ask, "Who else will be there?" I would never think of asking such a question, but I have had any number of people ask ME who else will be there when I have invited them for a party. Thank you, kindly. MIRIAM.

DEAR MIRIAM: The thoughtful hostess, when extending an invitation, might volunteer this information along with "what kind of a party it will be" to clue in her guests on what to wear. But it is never, never proper for one who is invited to a party to ask, "Who else will be there?"

On Etiquette

Steak And Baked Potato Etiquette:

Recently my husband and I had dinner at a well-known steak house with another couple. Each ordered the same: steak, baked potato and tossed salad.

The waiter served the steaks on large plates. The potatoes were on small dishes in front of the plates, and the salads were in separate bowls, each at the left side. The other woman took her baked potato and put it on the big plate. Was she correct in doing this?

Louise Davis Answers: Yes. However, the rest of you were correct too, for it is optional. I would have transferred my potato too, especially if the large plate didn't contain too much meat juice, which would have made the potato skin soggy. Reaching across for a forkful of potato is a long stretch and sometimes can be tough on a long sleeve. Steak or no steak, I feel that the main course should go on one plate. I have noticed that many private clubs and first-class restaurants have tables literally covered with small dishes for all vegetables. How much easier on the "pantry," the waiters, the tables and on the diners if the meat and vegetables are served on one plate. There would be exceptions, of course, such as stewed tomatoes or salad, which would need a separate dish. If people object to these little side dishes, there is no reason why the food couldn't be unobtrusively transferred and the waiter instructed to remove the small dishes. The table would look considerably better, for there wouldn't be so much clutter and clatter.

There would be exceptions, of course, such as stewed tomatoes or salad, which would need a separate dish. If people object to these little side dishes, there is no reason why the food couldn't be unobtrusively transferred and the waiter instructed to remove the small dishes. The table would look considerably better, for there wouldn't be so much clutter and clatter.

Louise Davis Answers: Yes. However, the rest of you were correct too, for it is optional. I would have transferred my potato too, especially if the large plate didn't contain too much meat juice, which would have made the potato skin soggy. Reaching across for a forkful of potato is a long stretch and sometimes can be tough on a long sleeve. Steak or no steak, I feel that the main course should go on one plate. I have noticed that many private clubs and first-class restaurants have tables literally covered with small dishes for all vegetables. How much easier on the "pantry," the waiters, the tables and on the diners if the meat and vegetables are served on one plate. ## Religious Troubles Still Dog Peter Townsend's Romantic Life

BRASSCHAAT, Belgium (AP)—Peter Townsend introduced his heiress fiancée to reporters Sunday and said they hope to marry within three months or so. But he conceded that religious troubles still dog his romantic life.

The former suitor of Princess Margaret was asked whether he planned to marry dark-eyed, 20-year-old Marie-Luce Jamagne in a religious ceremony.

"I would rather not discuss that point," replied the 44-year-old Townsend. "It is too delicate a question."

Marie-Luce is a Roman Catholic while Townsend belongs to the Church of England. It was Townsend's status as a divorced man that forced a reluctant decision from Margaret to end their romance in 1955.

A priest summed up the attitude of the Roman Catholic Church to a Townsend religious ceremony this way:

"No Catholic priest can marry a Catholic girl to a divorcee unless there is a special dispensation from the holy pope, and there must be special reasons to justify such dispensation."

"However, the question is whether the Catholic Church would consider the first wedding of Mr. Townsend as valid. In my opinion it is not likely, as normally the Catholic Church would not consider valid a wedding not performed within the Catholic religion by a Catholic priest."

Townsend was married in 1941 to Rosemary Pawle in the Anglican Church. He divorced her in 1952 on grounds of adultery. They had two sons, who live with her. She later remarried.

Mrs. Jamagne said Saturday the wedding would be early next year.

Townsend spoke partly in French, partly in English. He said he spoke French most of the time with Marie-Luce, who speaks only a little English.

SETTLE IN FRANCE

Townsend said they probably will settle in France after the wedding, possibly in Paris. He said he is considering working on documentary and semi-documentary films for a Swiss producer.

Townsend's longish hair showed touches of gray and his face had lost the boyish look of the days of his romance with Princess Margaret.

Marie-Luce displayed a ring with a good-sized diamond. She said it was her engagement ring from Townsend.

The former RAF pilot has been roaming the world, writing a book and making a movie, since Margaret announced four years ago that she would not marry him. He said he now is living in Brasschaat.

"I am almost a Belgian, I have been living so long in the country," he said.

Marie-Luce cleared up, the matter of her age, which has been variously reported. She said she was born July 3, 1939.

Nicknamed "Mosquito" by her friends, she is slim, long-legged and slightly taller than Townsend. She has dark, almost black hair and black eyes.

Something of a tomboy when she was younger, she had little schooling after suffering shock in the bombing of Antwerp.

She likes horses and has been a frequent winner in jumping contests. She is fond of ballet dancing, at which she is said to be very good.

Bridesmaid Designs Lovely Gown For Bride Sharon Armstrong

A gown designed by her bridesmaid, Miss Carole Slater, was worn by Miss Sharon Elizabeth Allen Armstrong for her marriage in Centennial United Church recently. White imported French brocade formed the lovely classic dress.

It featured a fitted bodice enhanced by a scoop neckline and lily point sleeves. Full skirt was caught up at the front in a peek-a-boo effect held by a white velvet rose. Full train descended from the waist. A crown of orange blossoms held her chapel-length veil. She carried five pardenias and white stephanotis in cascading design. Bride was given in marriage by her father.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Armstrong of Ardmore Drive, and her groom, Albert Luigi Bertoia, is from Rossland. He is a member of the Victoria Shamrocks' Lacrosse team.

Dr. M. Thompson conducted evening service.

Miss Maureen Mackintosh, maid of honor, wore a rust-toned gown of peau-de-soie. Miss Slater and Miss Donna Campbell, bridesmaids, were in gold gowns in matching style. All carried cascade bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

Jack Howes was best man and Alan Gill and Donald Hamilton ushered. Gordon Mackintosh, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast at a reception in Club Sirocco. George Slater was master of ceremonies.

For a honeymoon in the interior of British Columbia and Washington State, bride donned a pink wool sheath-style dress topped with a muskrat fur jacket. Her accessories were in black and she had a corsage of gardenias.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertoia will make their home at 316 Uganda Street when they return.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Gerald Kapler, aged 14, of Fort Atkinson, Iowa, for his question:

What Is An Eland?

The most glamorous wild animals live in Africa, enjoying themselves on the sunny plains, in the brushlands, and on the forested slopes. They often roam together in large assorted groups of deer and antelope, zebra and ostrich. Settlers and hunters have driven them from much of their old territory but there are still vast tracts where they are allowed to live freely. There are laws to protect them but still more laws are needed to preserve this lavish display of wild life.

Most of the world's antelopes live in Africa and the largest of them is the eland. Every antelope is a handsome animal but we cannot appreciate his full beauty as he stands caged in a zoo or stuffed in a museum. A firefly in a bottle is a lovely sight to see, but it is far more wonderful to watch him flit freely through the night air.

The antelope is the fastest of racers, an acrobat and almost a ballet dancer. His greatest beauty is in motion, and we see it at its peak only when he frolics freely in his native land.

The eland may stand six feet at shoulder level and tip the scales at 1,200 pounds. His face is gentle, his head held proudly and crowned with a pair of graceful, spiraling horns. Unlike his relatives, the eland has a flap of skin called a dewlap under his chin.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Groucho Marxes came to dinner at the Four Seasons with the BW and me. The man who came to dinner proved to be the man who came to ad lib.

Sitting beside the pool, we discussed a certain celebrity's age. Groucho's wife, Eden, he's older than that—he's 50, exclaimed the BW.

"Fifty isn't old," snapped Groucho. "I consider anybody 50 a Boy Scout!"

A table away sat an official of General Aniline Corp. Groucho, began singing, "Sweetie-eeet Ann-a-li-ee." Groucho said that the tycoon seemed pleasant. "But I find that hanging around rich people gets you nowhere. Rich people are damned dull."

"You're rich," I pointed out. "Yes, and I'm damned dull, too," barked Groucho.

He admired the restaurant. "Why is it," he asked, seriously, "that restaurants are always more beautiful than the people who frequent them?"

Groucho is pleased with the reaction to his book, "Groucho and Me," but he said, "I'm too old and too rich to care what anybody says about either my book or my program."

"If Hollywood does your book," I asked, "who would play you?"

"Duke Wayne, of course—or Helen Twelvetrees."

"How long do you think Jack Paar can stay so big," I asked. "As long as he has his health. He's under a terrific pressure. When I shake hands with him after doing the show, his hand feels like he's had it in a pitcher of water."

His Car Is His Bedroom Court Told

Istvan Szobottiscanec Thursday asked for two weeks to pay a police court fine and was granted half the time because the court thought he might be a bit hard to locate.

You see, it was explained to Magistrate William Ostler, he sleeps in a car.

The accused first pleaded guilty to driving without a licence and was fined $25. He then asked to have two weeks time extension and the magistrate asked prosecutor Angus Smith if he approved.

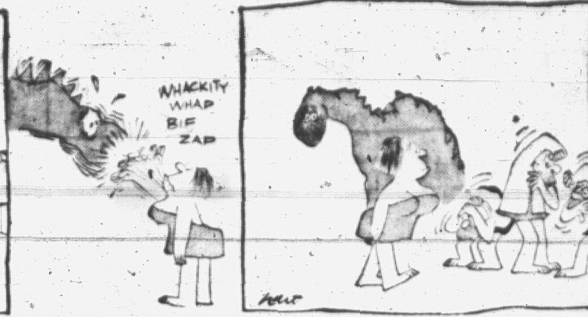

Mr. Smith hesitated and the accused was asked if he still lived at 717 Pandora, as indicated on his summons.

He said he slept in a car. There was another pause and the court consented to payment next Thursday.

President Verbally Spanks Prankish Students at UBC

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, warned student pranksters Wednesday they must learn that responsibility goes with freedom.

He told students in his annual address that he was ashamed of their actions this year for the first time in his 15 years at the university when an edition of the student paper lampooned the Easter tradition.

DISGRACEFUL

"I thought then and still think that this was a disgraceful production and unworthy of intelligent and responsible young men and women," he said.

Dr. MacKenzie also reported taken against students taking part in "escapades" on the campus because they were "illustrations of the exercise of freedom which does affect and interfere with in a detrimental way, others in society."

"Being something of a rebel myself in temperament, I have a certain sympathy for these individuals who are so concerned lest freedom be interfered with or lost, but I would like to remind them that the maximum freedom can only be enjoyed by those who are willing to accept responsibility for the conduct of their affairs," he said.

LURID, VULGAR

The president attacked the publication of "lurid and vulgar" novels and magazines which can be purchased readily by anyone, including children, to illustrate his conviction that "none of us is completely free to give uncontrolled expression to our thoughts and emotions."

But he warned students to beware of the "weak in heart and the mealy-mouthed" who have succeeded in condemning many great works of literature on the basis of immorality.

Hunter Trials Set Oct. 25

Victoria Riding Academy's fall hunter trials will be held Sunday, Oct. 25, commencing at 12:30 p.m., at the Academy's Cedar Hill Crossroad's property.

Seven events are listed, with the feature a gruelling one- and one-half mile cross-country event. Entries to the cross-country are limited to experienced riders, and entrants will be required to walk the course prior to the event.

Entries secretary for the trials is Mrs. W. H. Dunbar, 1007 Joan Crescent.

Disastrous Drought

THE HAGUE (Reuters) — H. D. Louwes, chairman of Holland's agricultural board, Thursday described the country's present drought as a catastrophe exceeded only by the 1953 flood disaster. Many places have had no more than two-thirds of an inch of rain in the last 5½ months.

WHY PROTESTANTS PROTEST?

'Elmer Gantry' Rouses Ire

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Recently a studio head told me: "The main reason the Protestants are up in arms about movie morality is one picture — Elmer Gantry."

This is denied by Protestant sources, who say their current criticisms of sex and violence in films is based on moral reasons alone. But it is apparent that the novel by Sinclair Lewis is destined to stir up

Elmer Gantry was Lewis' attack on sawdust evangelism of the Billy Sunday school. Its effect was reported by the author in his acceptance speech for the Nobel Prize. He told of one California pastor who offered to lead a lynch mob against him and another from Maine who sought some means to put Lewis in jail.

Now director-writer Richard Brooks and star Burt Lancaster are realizing a long-cherished ambition of putting Elmer on the screen again.

Brooks says most of the critics "don't even know what we are doing with the production code office."

The code states: "Ministers of religion, or persons posing as such, shall not be portrayed as comic characters or as villains so as to cast disrespect on a religion."

Canada in Danger As U.S. Satellite

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Norman MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, warned Thursday that Canada is in danger of becoming a nation of "hewers of wood and drawers of water" for the United States.

In his annual address to students, Dr. MacKenzie said it is a "matter of vital and personal concern to every Canadian" to stop a flow of Canadian "scholastic talent across the border which has been increasing in momentum."

He told the students they must "explore ways and means of ensuring that most of the best and ablest of young Canadians find opportunities for themselves in Canada."

"We rely to such an extent on the United States and its people for so many things and in such a variety of fields, there may be little place for the able and brilliant young Canadian, particularly in the fields of science and technology, to find uses for his talents in this country," he said.

POISON TO POISON?

Mae's Etchings Too Hot for TV

NEW YORK (UPI) — The "Poison to Person" television program accepted Mae West's invitation to "come up and see me some time," but the Columbia Broadcasting System cancelled the program Thursday, apparently because of Miss West's innuendoes.

Charles Collingwood, host of the show, was to have opened its fall season tonight with a video tape visit to Miss West's Hollywood apartment. But the network's programming officials called it all off after getting a preview.

CBS did not point out exactly what it found questionable. But a spokesman said the network felt some portions of the interview with the 66-year-old star might be "mis-constructed."

Collingwood introduced the stage, screen and nightclub star as a person who had "made a career of kidding sex."

Miss West, in the video presentation which was shown privately to the press, got to the subject quickly by saying she had written a book reviewing her "private transgressions—that's a long word for sin."

"Nowadays you don't hide the past, you print it," she said. She invited Collingwood to "ask me anything the law allows and I'll try to give a right answer."

Wiggling, she entered her mirrored bedroom. "I do most of my writing in bed," said the author of the current best-seller entitled "Goodness Had Nothing To Do With It." When Collingwood remarked about the size of her bed, she said, "Louis the 15th would have slept here and liked it."

She said she had mirrors all over the bedroom "for personal observation."

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A new type of multi-purpose helicopter known as the Whirlwind-25 has gone into production in Red China, the New China News Agency reports. The agency said for altitude, cruising speed, loading capacity and in other respects, the new helicopter could be compared with the best of its kind in the world.

Made of dry 1 1/4" stock in 10 and 12-in. widths. "FOREST" siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs sawn to show the beauty and character of knots, burls, etc. <h4>APPEARANCE?</h4> For homes and buildings where a distinctive appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines. Sound intergrown knots ranging in size from 2-inch in 6-inch widths to 4-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade. <h4>WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?</h4> "FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and greater wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building. The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the lap which, together with its thickness and flush-to-base principle, makes excellent material from the INSULATION standpoint. <h4>HOW IS IT APPLIED?</h4> As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut. <h4>BRITISH COLUMBIA FOREST PRODUCTS LTD.</h4> VICTORIA SAWMILLS DIVISION      Fir, Hemlock and Cedar Lumber Products      Plywood      Cedar Shakes      PRES-TO-LOGS      371 GORGE ROAD E. ## TOWNSEND UNDER FIRE

LONDON (AP)—A British Roman Catholic newspaper has attacked Peter Townsend for his engagement to a Catholic girl, Marie-Luce Jamagne. The Catholic Times says that since Princess Margaret turned him down because of the religious barrier, "one would have thought that Townsend, a divorced man, would have kept clear of entanglement with a Catholic girl."

Algerian Policy Gets Solid Vote

PARIS (Reuters)—French President Charles de Gaulle's Algerian policy won massive legislative support early today in the Fifth Republic's first vote of confidence.

Official votes were 444 for the government, 225 against and 28 abstentions. Fifty-seven legislators took no part, not even registering abstentions.

Parliamentary backing for President de Gaulle's self-declared "policy of Algerian integration" ranged from the 209-strong Gaullist party, still the largest in Parliament, although 10 of its extreme right-wing members quit in protest over a government policy, to the socialists, who are normally in opposition.

BOYCOTTED

The Algerian group of deputies, who claim that Algeria decided its future—integration with France—in the referendum and elections last year, boycotted both the debate and the final vote.

Earlier, Prime Minister Michel Debre said in the National Assembly debate on the de Gaulle policy that union between France and its North African territory must be maintained.

Debre defined his government's objective as averting secession of Algeria.

Algiers was calm as the population of Algeria's capital awaited the vote in Paris.

WORLD CHALLENGE

Remove Poverty Shackles

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Canada's economy is entirely capable of adjusting from the heavy burden of defence to a greater flow of goods for Canadians and their customers. External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday night.

It is unsound and wrong to say that Canada's free enterprise economy needs the stimulation of an arms race to avoid economic depression, he suggested.

Disarmament is of "great and immediate concern to me," he declared, referring to the pending new round of disarmament talks in which Canada will participate.

"It is not enough to be able to lead from a position of military strength, which must be maintained while we seek agreement on disarmament; there must be economic strength and stability as well," Mr. Green said in an address to the Canadian Exporters' Association.

Rescue Truck Handed Over To Firemen

Effective strength of Oak Bay's Fire Department was increased Thursday with the addition of a new rescue truck.

Presented to the municipality by Oak Bay Kiwanis Club president-elect Allan Chauvin, it was received by Fire Chief William Pearson and Reeve George Chatterton. Ceremony took place at 4 p.m. in the fire hall and short addresses were made by Mrs. Chauvin and Reeve Murdoch.

Chief Pearson said that plans for the vehicle include immediate outfitting with a siren and red light as it could be used as an ambulance.

Heavy rescue equipment, he said, would be installed later at municipal expense.

'They Grabbed While Grabbing Was Good'

Inability to see the other person's point of view has caused innumerable wars and killed many millions of people, Dr. Brock Chisholm told members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia at their annual meeting Thursday night.

"This intolerance would continue to produce wars but for the fact we are now threatened with annihilation of the whole human race," Dr. Chisholm said.

"Ours is the first generation that has held veto power over the fate of mankind. It is no longer possible for one group of humanity to survive at the expense of another."

"Those days are gone forever, and selfish people don't like it at all. They would like to protect their own particular group regardless of what happens to the rest of the world."

Dr. Chisholm said Canadians and Americans are fortunate in having "nice aggressive ancestors who grabbed while the grabbing was good."

He said this had prompted many people abroad to ask why Canadians and Americans glorified the people who killed the most Indians in their movies and comic strips.

"They cannot understand why we make heroes of people who kill, and frankly I do not understand it myself."

Dr. Chisholm said the selfishness of national and racial groups could be attributed to the "attitudes" inculcated by parents and teachers.

"If we had been born in another kind of culture, or even in the house next door, we might have had an entirely different set of basic attitudes."

"But most people do not even consider changing the attitudes into which they have been born. The most they achieve are a few minor readjustments in some of their less important prejudices."

Dr. Chisholm spoke of taboos set up by orthodoxy which create "blind spots" in the human mind.

"Human beings can no longer afford to remain creatures of accident... nor can they accept the attitudes of their parents."

"There is nothing more absurd than to say we believe in something because our parents believed in it. We must be prepared to do much more thinking than our predecessors have done."

Dr. Chisholm said freedom of imagination is essential to health and he suggested this freedom be applied to the world's food problem.

"At present we have no system of distributing food on a world-wide scale," he said. "More than half of the world's people are suffering from malnutrition and this proportion is increasing."

"We are capable of producing much more food than we are producing, but we are not taking any vital steps in that direction."

"There is no foreseeable arrangement for providing enough food to feed the world's population of 40 years hence, unless science provides the answer."

Dr. Chisholm suggested that countries which had an abundance of food should be prepared to give, perhaps, one-fifth to the under-nourished countries.

"We may have to do that if the human race is to survive," he said.

A SIGN OF SETTLEMENT?

tor in steel strike. They met amid rumors that settlement was possible after new union offer. (AP Photo.)

New Steel Strike Offer May Settle Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Steelworkers' Union today made a new strike-settlement proposal to the industry. The industry said it would be studied.

The proposal was advanced at the first session of new direct negotiations, undertaken at government prodding.

This meeting broke up after about an hour and 45 minutes. David J. McDonald, union president, confirmed at that time reports of a new union proposal. He declined to give its details.

The negotiators will meet again at 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

BOTH TRYING

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said that meantime the union proposal would be studied.

"Both sides," Cooper said, "are endeavoring to reach an agreement to settle this issue by collective bargaining."

Although McDonald would not give details, well-placed sources said that the union

NEWS BEEP-NIKS FROM OUTER SPACE

WASHINGTON (Reuters)—The United States plans to launch a satellite next month designed to range far out in space and follow an orbit around the sun close to the path of the planet Venus, the magazine Missiles and Rockets reported today.

The unconfirmed report said: "If successful, the... payload will be the first to send back information from any great distance of solar space."

MOSCOW (UPI)—The names of Russia's first three prospective riders to the moon were revealed today.

The magazines "Soviet Union" and "Ogonok" had articles dealing with simulated space flights in which the blood of prospective astronauts was made to "boil."

Named as Russia's first astronauts were Ivan Kachur, Alexei Grachev and Alexei Belokonev.

The magazines also told how a dog whose blood was "boiled" in a pressure chamber came out of the experiment so well he immediately and happily chomped away at a sausage.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—America may orbit a plastic man in advance of the Mercury astronaut to test the amount of radiation the human space pioneer must encounter, it was revealed here today.

The mannequin would be filled with tissue-equivalent fluid that would absorb as much radiation as a human body.

Ottawa To Cut Borrowing

OTTAWA (UPI)—Finance Minister Donald Fleming told the provinces today the federal government will try to help them find needed capital by cutting down its own borrowing.

Fleming said he thought the best way to help the provinces was to strengthen federal credit through borrowing less. He said bond prices dropped when the chartered banks sold federal bonds to get money for loans.

He said, however, the federal government needs only 300 million dollars between now and the end of the fiscal year, March 31, to meet maturing loans. He also reiterated that the federal government will try to cut its deficit in next spring's budget.

The minister denied there was lack of confidence in the government's financing. He said the "acid test" was the fact the public's holdings of federal government bonds increased by two billion dollars during the past year.

Fleming made his statements to newsmen at a recess in the federal-provincial treasurers' conference. The conference ended this afternoon. There was no official communique.

He said he was not pessimistic about the present borrowing difficulties. He said lack of capital was general through the west, but that this had not interfered with economic expansion.

He added that the government will do all it can to create a favorable market for foreign investment.

Fleming also had some answers for provincial suggestions on how the provinces could raise more money.

He turned down an Ontario request that the $20,000 ceiling on the value of Canada Savings Bonds held by any one person be lowered to make more money available for provincial borrowing. He said the federal government will have to borrow less in the open market if its bond campaign is a success.

ALL REJECTED

He also rejected a proposal that the Bank of Canada buy provincial bonds much as it does federal bonds. He said the central bank would have to sell some of its federal bonds to get the money to do this.

He said none of the provincial proposals were accepted. Others included requests for sales tax exemptions on provincial purchases, the purchase of provincial bonds by federal government bond-holding agencies—like the unemployment insurance fund—and tax-free coupons on provincial bonds.

There was no proposal presented for a lottery system similar to that in Great Britain. He said however, this scheme was mentioned in background papers on money-raising methods used in other countries.

Once he managed to stay hidden aboard an Air France Constellation until it reached Shannon Airport, in Ireland. He was on his way to see Rita Hayworth.

David's target now is the Boeing 707 jet.

"What a plane," he said as he Bourget Airport workers pulled him out of one Thursday.

"Who were you going to see this time?" asked an airport guard.

"Esther Williams," David murmured. "I love her."

PREMIER TO BOOST B.C.

WALL ST. GETS 'MESSAGE'

BY VICTOR MACKIE

OTTAWA—Premier W. A. C. Bennett next week will visit the big financial houses in New York, Boston and Chicago, but he has no plans for a visit to England—contrary to reports circulating in Victoria.

Premier Bennett told The Times today that he will visit the big financial houses not with the idea of borrowing money, but to outline for the financiers the big developments now under way and planned in British Columbia.

"We are not going to these

people to borrow money. We are going to explain the big developments and interpret them to give these people the picture," the premier said.

It is likely that the premier will be making the tour to facilitate the obtaining of funds in the future by the Wenner-Gren interests. Next year they are expected to start raising the estimated $600,000,000 required for their Peace River power project.

"I want to explain," said Mr. Bennett, "the great developments going ahead in B.C., especially the great new phase starting in the 1960s."

Split in U.K. Labor Party Opened on Nationalization

FEARLESS, PINT-SIZED JUNGLE WAR HERO DIES

LONDON (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. Thomas Wynford Rees, the fearless "little man" of the British Army who beat the Japanese at their own game in Burma's jungles, died here Thursday night.

The five-foot-three commander of the 19th Indian Division won a colorful place in military history for his part in the capture of Mandalay. The dynamic, fearless Welshman became a legend in the grim hand-to-hand fighting in Burma.

Rees won the Distinguished Service Order in the First World War for capturing an escaping Turkish battery in Syria single-handed.

NOT YET ANYWAY

We Won't Scrap Jets—Pearkes

By PETE LOUDON

There are no "immediate" plans for replacement of Canada's nine CF-100 squadrons with other aircraft or some form of missile, Defence Minister George R. Pearkes said here today.

At the same time he noted, "the defence picture is continually changing and there can be nothing static."

The statement, made on his arrival at Empress Hotel this morning, did not appear to be an outright denial of speculation at Ottawa Thursday that the RCAF "front line" interceptors would be progressively scrapped and replaced by ground-to-air missiles.

The minister said, "We plan to keep up to date without undue demands on the taxpayer."

He noted one of the CF-100 squadrons is stationed at Comox, on Vancouver Island.

The defence minister, who will speak at Doncaster School at a tonight, scoffed at fears expressed here recently by national Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, that new Soviet nuclear-powered submarines have made Canada's new destroyer escorts obsolete.

"The navies of the world believe it is essential to have surface ships as well as submarines for the detection of submarines," he said. "Nuclear subs at present are fabulously expensive. We've got to think carefully before we go in for nuclear subs."

The minister was to meet Mayor Percy Scurrin and Chamber of Commerce representative Conway Parrott at noon. They seek award of new shipping contracts here.

LONDON (AP)—A split opened today in Britain's Labor party, battered by its election defeat last week at the hands of the Conservatives.

Moderates urged a swing to the right and rebel left-wingers demanded a return to all-out socialism.

Douglas Jay, close adviser and personal friend of party leader Hugh Gaitskell, called nationalization a "damaging" party policy and suggested it be shelved.

"If Labor is ever going to win a future election," said Jay in a magazine article, "we must remove the first two fatal handicaps—the class image and the myth of nationalization."

Jay's warnings coincided with a demand in the left-wing magazine Tribune for full scale socialism as the major party policy.

One of the editorial directors of the magazine is Jenny Lee, wife of Gaitskell's No. 1 assistant, Aneurin Bevan.

The magazine hammered at Gaitskell's election tactics and said: "Of course socialist nationalization is unpopular. How could it be otherwise when at each successive election Labor party leaders show that they regard it not as a means to advance Britain's future, but as a dead dog to be discarded?"

Air Freighters Cut

EDMONTON (CP)—Pacific Western Airlines today announced freight rate reductions, some permanent and some seasonal, on sections of their northern service.

50-Year Plan for Both Areas

By JOHN MIKA

A proposed $3,000,000 building program will put a new library, science building, and power plant on Victoria College's Mount Tolmie site, with full support of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Decision was taken today by a special chamber executive meeting, ending two years of sniping at the site by a chamber subcommittee.

Only rider attached to the support is a "strong request" that the college council change the institution's name to the University of British Columbia at Victoria (Victoria College).

"I am very pleased with the chamber's endorsement of our decision to start an immediate building program on the present site," said Judge J. B. Clearhue, council chairman, after announcement of the decision.

Judge Clearhue and five other members of the council addressed the chamber's 25-man executive at a private meeting, in the Empress Hotel, reaffirming their decision to develop the Mount Tolmie site rather than immediately relocating the campus on the recently-purchased Gordon Head site.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

The council members showed the chamber executive a 50-year plan "for a university at Victoria," which will see eventual development of both sites.

A public campaign for $1,500,000 will be launched after the Christmas holiday to add new buildings to the 50-acre Mount Tolmie campus.

Immediately the buildings will be needed for third and fourth-year enrolment in the 1961-62 college year.

CBS SCRAPS TV QUIZZES

(See Page 15)

NEW ORLEANS, La (AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting System today announced that it is eliminating all quiz shows on its television network.

CBS President Frank Stanton made the announcement in a speech prepared for the Radio Television News Directors Association meeting here.

Senator Escapes in Chase With Carload of Gunmen

FRANCOIS MITTERRAND ... killer commandos

PARIS (Reuters)—A French senator flattened in the shadows of a Paris garden early today as machine-gun bullets ripped into his car at the end of a desperate flight through the silent streets of the capital.

The attack came shortly after a former government spokesman in Algeria warned that "killer commandos" have marked down certain government figures for assassination.

The senator, 42-year-old Francois Mitterrand, a leftist Radical, said he was pursued by a car-load of gunmen as he drove home from a restaurant in the Latin Quarter on the left bank of the Seine.

He dodged through a network of side streets and then roared at top speed down near-deserted Boulevard St.

Michel, but the pursuing car continued to close the gap.

Mitterrand, a former justice minister, braked hard and skidded into a street leading to the famed Observatory Gardens. He abandoned his car and vaulted a yard-high fence to take cover in the gardens in the shadows of some bushes.

The pursuing car swept around the corner seconds later, fired a burst of machine-gun bullets at Mitterrand's car and roared off.

Most stock classifications were higher but gains were confined to fractions.

AT LONDON The stock market was generally higher in active trading today.

Gold and silver prices rose on continued investment buying.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Broad and active trade in grain today demonstrated weakness on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Considerable selling was influenced by recent advances.

Lakenhead prices for class two, IWA and domestic wheat were all up one-quarter from Thursday.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybean and corn futures continued to demonstrate weakness on the Board of Trade today, while other grains were steady most of the time.

There was no important news to affect the grain markets and export demand was lacking.

Sunday Sport Crackdown

UNDER NEW PLAN

Hospital Planning 'Aged' Wing

Construction of a new wing for aged patients is under consideration by directors of George Road Hospital.

Mrs. Florence Mutrie, administrator of the chronic care hospital, revealed the possibility Thursday when she welcomed an announcement that BCHS benefits may be extended to chronic patients next year.

The announcement was made by B.C. Health Minister Eric Martin. He said the plan would depend on ability of communities to provide facilities.

Mrs. Mutrie said the BCHS extension "is what we have been hoping for for a long time."

About half of the hospital's patients would qualify for the benefits.

Mrs. Mutrie added that an influx of chronic patients is expected when the BCHS coverage is inaugurated and this could make a new wing necessary.

Dr. E. N. Boettcher, medical chief of St. Joseph's Hospital, said the added BCHS coverage would stimulate construction of chronic care facilities but for the present, St. Joseph's Hospital is concentrating on construction of additional regular hospital bed facilities.

Orcas Island Ferry Cancelled

Ferry service by Washington State Ferries to and from Orcas Island will be cancelled for one day only Tuesday next, the company has announced.

Cancellation is due to work on the Orcas ferry terminal, and will not affect service on the balance of the Sidney-Anacortes route.

Blaney's Travel Service is Victoria agent for WSF.

(From UP Dispatches) PRINCE GEORGE—RCMP intend to crack down on commercial Sunday sport and various types of lotteries in the Prince George area.

Staff Sgt. J. A. Knox, head of RCMP here, announced his decision Thursday night. He said city council has been informed of the move.

Scheduled for close scrutiny are lotteries held by local stores, bingos and Sunday shows at local drive-ins.

Sports which will be affected are the Cariboo Hockey League, football, basketball, ball, softball and lacrosse.

NEAR HALF WAY VANCOUVER—Greater Vancouver's Red Feather Appeal crept toward the half way mark Thursday with $1,302,121 or 41.7 per cent of the objective collected. The appeal closes Oct. 31.

TEENS ASK HELP BURNABY—North Burnaby Teen Town has asked for municipal protection against raids on its dances by outside gangs. A delegation asked council for "physical and moral support" for the Teen Town youth program, including RCMP protection at dances because of trouble from outside gangs.

3 BRIDGE BIDS WEST VANCOUVER—Reeve Stanley Collier said Thursday he has been approached by three foreign financial houses interested in financing a new bridge across Vancouver harbor at the First Narrows.

George Copely Leads Esquimalt Graduates

Esquimalt High School Thursday night honored its top 1959 graduates at an annual fall awards assembly.

The seven scholarship winners also walked off with provincial government bursaries that will pay up to half of their university tuition fees this year.

School Trustee R. H. Reeve congratulated the leading graduate, George Copely, who won the $150 Women's Canadian Club scholarship and also received a slide rule prize from the Association of Professional Engineers. Other honors awarded during the ceremony included: B.C. Forest Products Limited $300 scholarships to Daniel Brown and Sandra Johnstone; Esquimalt High School PTA $100 award to JoAnn Erickson; Esquimalt Lions Club $100 scholarship to John Emery; PTA Council award of $100 to Fern Abbott; and Esquimalt chapter of the IOOE $75 award to Frances Chapman.

TICKLING THE IVORIES—It's a toothy problem that presents itself to Matt Kelly, head keeper of the zoo in Manchester, Eng., as he brushes the teeth of Nicholas, the zoo's 22-year-old hippo. The big animal tips the scales at just a teensy bit over two tons.

Two Silicosis Definitions

Two alternative definitions of silicosis—a disease contracted by miners—were presented to the British Columbia Medical Association Thursday by its committee on occupational health.

One definition, the committee said, was a condition of the lungs caused by prolonged inhalation of silicon oxide characterized by nodular fibrosis of the lungs.

It may be accompanied in its advanced stages by shortness of breath, coughing, increased susceptibility to tuberculosis and a lessened capacity for work.

The other definition presented to the doctors described silicosis as a diagnosable disease of the lungs produced by the inhalation of silica dust. The committee recommended that there be no change in the present system of payment of compensations for disability lessened capacity for work.

1960 EDSEL

Introducing 1960 Edsel—the car that is so new, only the name is the same. In every sweeping line, Edsel is dramatically restyled with fresh, youthful good looks. In luxury features, room and ride, Edsel's the new-value car for 1960.

Three eager Edsel engines give you sparkling performance. The standard Ranger V-8 and the Economy Six give you lots of go on regular gasoline. The optional Super Express V-8 is a spectacular performer.

Edsel offers new comfort with exclusive Road-Poise Ride. New longer rear springs for a softer ride. Improved ball-joint front suspension for greater handling ease. New wide-span tread for road-gripping stability.

Luxurious new interiors with room-to-spare spaciousness for six passengers. There's more room for elbows, hips and hats in the new Edsel. New swept-back windshield pillars make entry and exit so easy.

In Edsel you'll find many luxury features as standard equipment: bigger, safer, self-adjusting brakes; luxurious wall-to-wall carpeting; generous insulation to seal the interiors from road noise, dust and weather.

See the fresh, spirited Edsel—the car that reflects your up-to-date good taste.

SEE IT AT YOUR FORD-EDSEL-MONARCH DEALER'S

Certain features illustrated or mentioned are standard on some models, optional at extra cost on others.

Thinking Doctors Filter Own Advice

Doctors and specialists attending the annual meeting of the B.C. Medical Association have been busy scaring the public over clinical associations between smoking and heart ailments and or lung cancer.

Do the doctors practice what they preach? They do not. Of 50 doctors standing in the Empress Hotel lobby today:

MONTE ROBERTS

The secret of being a good conversationalist is to show an intelligent interest in the affairs of other people; to ask questions, to draw out the best in the party of the second part to the conversation.

And just the other day, I encountered a master conversationalist, who held a conversation with me along these lines:

HE: Well, it is certainly nice to meet you. Yes, sir, it certainly is. I understand you are in the newspaper business?

ME: Yes.
HE: What is it like to be in the newspaper business? I have always thought it would be very interesting to be a newspaperman. Won't you tell me what it is like to be a newspaperman?

ME: Well, I would say . . .
HE: The reason I ask is, I am intensely interested in the newspaper business, and I am told you are a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time, and I have always wanted to ask a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time what it is like to be a newspaperman for a long time. What is it like to be a newspaperman for a long time?

ME: Things have changed a little, but . . .
HE: But they're just about the same, eh? Hah, hah, I knew you'd have a clever answer; people tell me you are very clever. That's why I like talking with you. I hate to appear to be a flatterer, but it certainly is an honor to talk to a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time and to be able to ask him, what it's like to be a newspaperman for a long time? Also, I would like to ask you, what does it take to be a newspaperman? I guess you need to know how to write, do you?

ME: It helps, but . . .
HE: I'm glad you said that. I knew you'd have that answer. You'd never know it, but I've often wondered what it would be like to write and be a newspaperman. I've often thought, if only I had the chance, I could write. Tell me, do you think I could write?

ME: That depends . . .
HE: Yes, you are so right. It does depend. That is what I like about talking to a newspaperman who has been a newspaperman for a long time, I can ask him what it is like, being a newspaperman for a long time. Tell me, what is it like, being a newspaperman for a long time? Do you like it?

ME: Yes.
HE: I'm sure I would like it, too. Now, answer me one question, because I am so interested in your being a newspaperman for a long time, do you think if I had had the chance to write and become a newspaperman, would I have liked being a newspaperman for a long time? I mean, newspapermen have to ask questions, and I ask questions, don't I?

ME: Yes.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

The junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a field trip to Center Mountain, Happy Valley Road.

L. G. Rhodes, Tacoma, director of area 13, National Office Management Association and supervisor of office services for Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., will address the Victoria branch of N.O.M.A. Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Pacific Club. Subject of his address will be "The Office, Opportunity for Service."

Visitor to Victoria today is Leonard Walker, newly-appointed assistant general manager, Bank of Montreal. Mr. Walker is chief executive officer for the B of M in B.C. and the Yukon.

He was a luncheon guest of A. E. Walters, manager of the main Victoria branch.

Prospect Lake and District Community Association will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in Prospect Lake School to discuss the school bylaw.

Col. A. L. Brady, provost marshal of the Canadian Army, will visit service units in British Columbia commencing Saturday, Oct. 24.

He will be in Victoria Oct. 27 and 28, inspecting the provost sub-detachment, and visiting the officer commanding E division, RCMP, and chief constables of Victoria, Esquimalt and Saanich.

From Oct. 24 to 26, he will be at area headquarters, Vancouver, and Oct. 28 and 29 at Chilliwack.

Seventy dollars were donated to the Red Cross as a result of a charity party held last Tuesday by the Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club at Holyrood House.

Winners in a recent club tournament were: Eric Ware and Larry MacMillan, Otto Leisment and Frank Artlett; Lillian Lebutt and Audrey Jorgensen; Velma Acres and Jack Goldie; Doug Tuck and Louis Lindholm.

J. L. Saville of Cobble Hill placed fourth among western contestants who took part in the Canadian plowing championship at Dundas, Ont., today.

He received 139 points, as against 150.3 awarded to Don Brownbridge of Portage la Prairie.

The national championship was won by Robert Timbers, 32-year-old farmer from Mount Albert, Ont.

Owner Fined $15 After Ordering Biting Dog Killed

Victor Normandau, 1001 North Park, was fined $15 in city police court today for harboring a vicious dog.

Evidence showed the animal had bitten the cheek of a two-year-old child and had been destroyed on the owner's instructions.

Mr. Normandau said he had been warned by police to keep the animal tethered, which he had done, but a child had taken it for a walk.

He said he had visited the child twice and offered to pay medical expenses.

Magistrate William Ostler said a heavy penalty was not warranted since "you have acted like a good citizen, in an exemplary fashion."

Readings from "David Copperfield" will be given at the monthly meeting of the Dickens Fellowship, Victoria branch, to be held at the home of E. F. Wetherston, president, 565 Marfield, next Monday at 8 p.m. Mr. Wetherston and H. W. Maunsell, vice-president, will speak.

Many home owners don't know what to do with their leaves. Some shove them into the gutter and wait for municipal employees to pick them up.

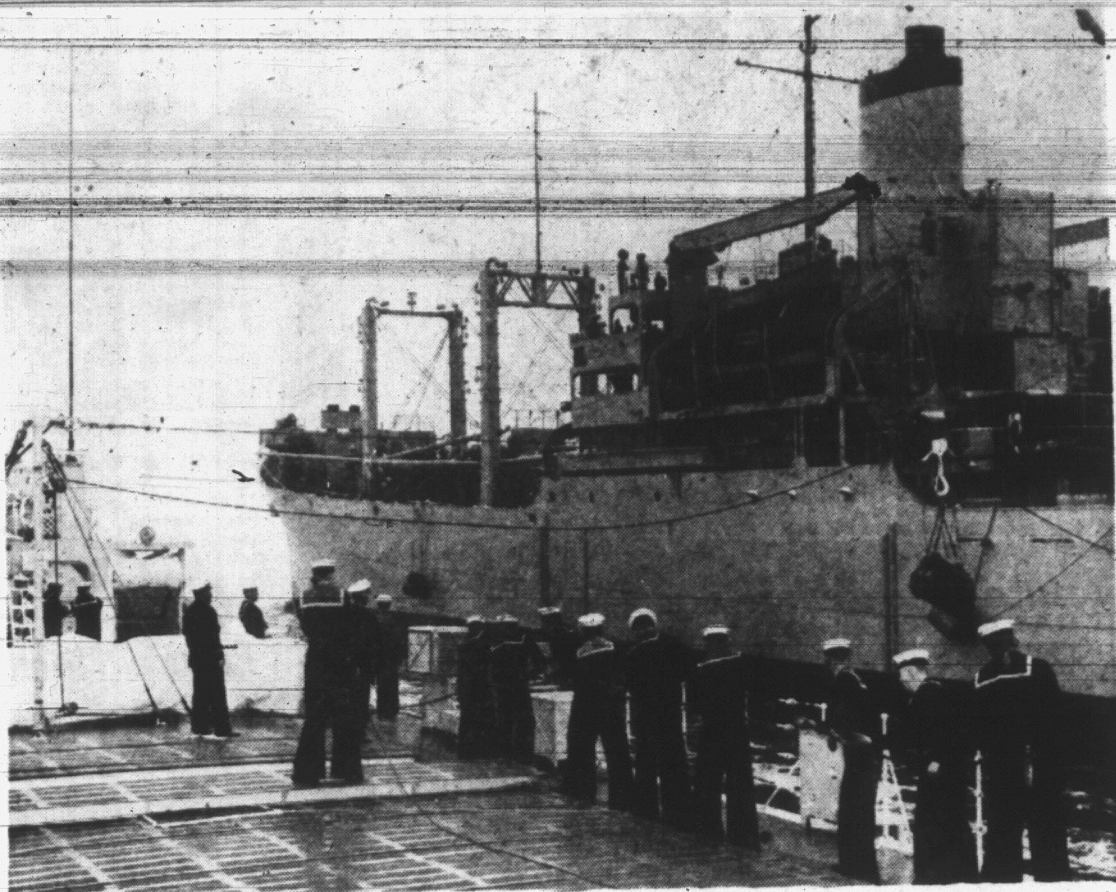

This is illegal. Proper method of leaf disposal is to burn them, either on your own property in an outside blaze, or in an approved incinerator drum with a grill cover.

All municipalities require fire permits for this, although persons who have permits governing incinerator operations are covered.

Oak Bay has the greatest leaf problem.

With mighty oaks, and other trees, the municipality years ago found that men with rakes were about as efficient as racquets used to eliminate snowflakes.

Back about 1945 a "leaf sucker" was built for $1,000. It is a tank 10 feet long and six feet high to which a goose-necked vacuum arrangement is attached. Powered by

5-YEAR TERM FOR ASSAULT ON YOUNGSTER

Rex Howard, 39, no fixed address, formerly of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for indecent assault upon a child under the age of 14 years.

In passing sentence, Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan said that unless Howard made an effort to overcome his "personality problem" while in penitentiary, steps might be taken to have him permanently removed from society.

It was disclosed in court that Howard had a criminal record.

Howard, a married man with a family, was tried by a jury which included two women. Jurors recommended that psychiatric treatment be made available to him in prison.

Mr. Justice Sullivan said if Howard did overcome his problem, he (the justice) would do all he could to expedite his release from penitentiary.

USN, RCN DEMONSTRATION

Transit Men See Mobile Refueling

An impressive public demonstration of the close working alliance between the United States and Canadian navies was carried out in Puget Sound waters this week.

Two Esquimalt-based destroyer escorts joined with USN units to show how underway replenishment works.

Observers were 1,100 delegates to the annual convention in Seattle of the National Transportation Association, a civil-military group concerned with operating the United States' yearly $3,000,000,000 budget for military transport.

REFUELING

The delegates went to sea Tuesday aboard a fleet of U.S. ships, to watch refueling and supplying of fighting ships by naval auxiliaries.

Representing Canada were HMC ships Assiniboine and Fraser. In company with the U.S. destroyers USS Brinkley Bass and Watts, the Canadian ships took on fuel, while underway, from the USN tanker Manatee.

They then took aboard supplies — still while underway — from the USN stores ship Pictor.

The demonstration was carried out to show, on a reduced scale, how a fleet replenishment at sea would work under operating conditions.

The U.S. ships were units of Task Group 16.4, whose concept is to provide mobile logistic support for fighting ships. Their job is to provide maximum support for forces afloat with minimum support required from advanced shore bases.

The ideal of mobile logistic support has been stated as "complete support from afloat units." At present, U.S. naval forces operating away from the continental United States obtain more than 80 per cent of their needs through mobile logistic support.

Leading a group of Pacific Command staff officers who attended the Seattle convention was Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, commander, maritime defence command, Pacific, and flag officer, Pacific Coast.

SUDBURY II WAITS OUT

'CHARLOTTE'

The Victoria deep-sea towboat Sudbury II is to wait three days away from Japan, waiting out Typhoon Charlotte which is bearing down on the tug with winds up to 95 knots.

Sudbury II has two Liberty ships from San Francisco in tow. Her master, Capt. Harley Blagborne, of Victoria, had expected to reach Yokohama Monday, but today messaged the owners, Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

"Delayed. Waiting typhoon to pass."

An Island Tug spokesman said today the typhoon is registering 50 knots wind over a 75 mile radius, 30 knots over a 200 mile radius, and 95 knots in the "eye" of the typhoon.

He said Sudbury II is in a position similar to that of her sister ship, Cambrian Salvor, a month ago. At that time the typhoon veered off and Salvor was able to proceed safely.

TWO MORE TOWS

Island Tug, now firmly in the trans-Pacific towing business, has two more major tows scheduled.

The tug Sudbury I is to tow a war-surplus "baby flat-top" to a rendezvous with Sudbury II in the Hawaiian Island area. Sudbury II will complete the tow to Japan.

The third trans-Pacific towboat, Cambrian Salvor, is finishing a refit at Victoria and will leave late next week with a Liberty ship, now at Ogden Point, in tow. Salvor will go to San Francisco, add a small aircraft carrier to her tow, then cross to Japan.

"It is fantastic that so many mothers store poisonous detergents and cleaning fluids under the kitchen sink where tiny toddlers can get at them so easily."

"Yet in hundreds of hospitals across Canada you see the results of this folly in death and sickness."

Dr. Rathbun said most cases of poisoning among children occur in the bathroom, the bedroom and the kitchen and this is what most of them consume:

Bedroom — Cosmetics, deodorants, perfume, hair tonics. Bathroom — Doctors' made-up prescriptions and disinfectants. Kitchen — Detergents, cleaning fluids, paraffin oil.

Beacon Hill Park, now utilizes a "mulcher," attached to a rotary mower which chops leaves into tiny bits right on the spot. They stay on the grass and quickly become soil.

The "mulcher" is not used in all parks, however, and the city estimates that from 800 to 1,000 cubic yards of compost is piled up each year by the Beacon Hill nursery.

Golf courses are raking grass all the time, and at this time of year leaves are just part and parcel of the job.

'Hoggish' Driver Jailed

5-Year Suspension After Fatal Crash

Mr. Justice Harry J. Sullivan in Assize Court here today described a Victoria motorist found guilty of criminal negligence as "selfish and hoggish with a complete disregard for human life."

He sentenced Glen Lageri, 1052 Mason, to two months in Oakalla Prison, fined him $500 and cancelled his driver's licence for five years.

Lageri was found guilty by a jury Wednesday of driving his car in a criminal manner which resulted in a violent two-car crash on Douglas at Cloverdale just before midnight May 16.

Witnesses testified that Lageri was travelling at a high rate of speed, between 60 and 70 miles an hour.

Lageri claimed he was travelling at about 30 miles an hour.

"SNUFFED OUT"

The trial justice lashed out at the 23-year-old motorist. "You snuffed out the life of a young married woman," he said. "You were traveling at a high rate of speed with an utter disregard for the safety of others."

The judge reminded the prisoner the charge of criminal negligence carried with it a maximum sentence of life imprisonment.

BY CHRISTMAS

But, he said, in view of the jury's recommendation for leniency, he was sending him (Lageri) to Oakalla for two months so he could be back with his family by Christmas. "But I'm going to prohibit you from driving on public highways anywhere in Canada for five years," he said.

SOME BENEFITS

The fees are comparable to MSI's limited coverage schedule where employees' employers share the cost of $2 single fees and $5.50 fees for married couples and dependents.

Ban on Hunting Predicted In North Saanich District After Pellets Hit Children

An incensed Deep Cove mother today predicted action will be taken to restrict hunting in the North Saanich area as a result of her son and two other children having been hit Thursday by spent shotgun pellets.

"I don't know what procedure will be followed," said Mrs. J. C. Graham, 11105 Chale Road, "but I'm pretty positive something will be done."

The pellet hit her son, Michael, in the lobe of the ear. It was removed without difficulty at Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney.

TWO OTHERS HIT

Also hit were Michael Dixon, struck by a shot than stung through his clothes, and his sister, Margot, who was bruised on the leg. Fourth member of the little group was Bobby Russell.

The children were hit while walking along Birch Road to Deep Cove School at 8:30 a.m. "I feel even more strongly about this when I recall that the children actually spoke to the hunters before they were hit," Mrs. Graham said. "The hunters knew the children were in the vicinity."

Mrs. William Kynaston, Tatlow Road, said Deep Cove residents live in "fear and trembling" throughout the hunting season.

"When we are sitting at breakfast we have a constant bang-bang-bang in our ears morning and night," she said. "We have lovely woods near our plan but we don't dare go near them in hunting season."

Algerian Policy Gets Solid Vote

PARIS (Reuters) — French President Charles de Gaulle's Algerian policy won massive legislative support early today in the Fifth Republic's first vote of confidence.

Official votes were 441 for the government, 23 against and 28 abstentions. Fifty-seven legislators took no part, not even registering abstentions.

Parliamentary backing for President de Gaulle's self-determination plan for Algeria ranged from the 209-strong Gaullist party, still the largest in Parliament although 10 of its extreme right-wing members quit in protest over a government policy in the socialist, who are normally in opposition.

BOYCOTTED

The Algerian group of deputies, who claim that Algeria decided its future—integration with France—in the referendum and elections last year, boycotted both the debate and the final vote.

Earlier, Prime Minister Michel Debre said in the National Assembly debate on the de Gaulle policy that union between France and its North African territory must be maintained.

Debre defined his govern-

Remove Poverty Shackles

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP) — Canada's economy is entirely capable of adjusting from the heavy burden of defence to a greater flow of goods for Canadians and their customers, External Affairs Minister Green said Wednesday night.

It is unsound and wrong to say that Canada's free enterprise economy needs the stimulation of an arms race to avoid economic depression, he suggested.

Disarmament is of "great and immediate concern to me," he declared, referring to the pending new round of disarmament talks in which Canada will participate.

"It is not enough to be able to lead from a position of military strength, which must be maintained while we seek agreement on disarmament; there must be economic strength and stability as well," Mr. Green said in an address to the Canadian Exporters' Association.

"I am convinced that the greatest challenge, the most pressing problem which faces our civilization today is that over half the world's population bears the shackles of severe poverty, ignorance, disease and illiteracy, and there can be no assured peace or stability for the world until those shackles have been removed."

Rescue Truck Handed Over To Firemen

Effective strength of Oak Bay's Fire Department was increased Thursday with the addition of a new rescue truck.

Presented to the municipality by Oak Bay Kiwanis Club president-elect Allan Chauvin, it was received by Fire Chief William Pearson and Reeve George Chatterton. Ceremony took place at 4 p.m. in the fire hall and short addresses were made by Mrs. Chauvin and Reeve Murdoch.

Chief Pearson said that plans for the vehicle include immediate outfitting with a siren and red light so it could be used as an ambulance.

Heavy rescue equipment, he said, would be installed later at municipal expense.

TOWNSEND UNDER FIRE

LONDON (AP) — A British Roman Catholic newspaper has attacked Peter Townsend for his engagement to a Catholic girl, Marie-Luce Jamagne.

The Catholic Times says that since Princess Margaret turned him down because of the religious barrier, "one would have thought that Townsend, a divorced man, would have kept clear of entanglement with a Catholic girl."

Gen. George Marshall Dies at 78

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. George C. Marshall, famed Second World War leader, died at Walter Reed Hospital tonight at the age of 78.

The five-star military leader suffered a stroke earlier this year.

Marshall, who bore the title of General of the Army, gained world fame as a soldier-statesman. Later, he won the Nobel Prize for his contributions to peace.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A suggestion that the Pacific Coast Soccer League might invite Victoria back into the fold and transfer franchises to Portland and Seattle to stimulate interest in the league was made here by general manager Bill Coleman.

Calgary Stamps Lose Star Tackle

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampede, struggling for a playoff spot in the Western Interprovincial Football Union, suffered a severe blow today when it was learned they will finish the season with only 11 imports. The club announced that star import tackle Gerry Sturm underwent surgery late Thursday for ligament repairs to his right knee.

Baby Returned After 'Abduction'

VANCOUVER (CP) — A seven-month-old baby girl missing with her baby-sitter from an East-End Vancouver home for nearly 20 hours, was returned to her parents today. Police questioned the 38-year-old baby-sitter.

The baby, Sandra Marie Christie, was reported in good condition.

Mrs. Marie Christie, the child's mother, feared the girl had been abducted when the sitter did not return after taking the child for a walk Friday night.

'Our Ancestors
Grabbed While Grabbing Good'

Inability to see the other person's point of view has caused innumerable wars and killed many millions of people, Dr. Brock Chisholm told members of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of British Columbia at their annual meeting Thursday night.

"This intolerance would continue to produce wars but for the fact we are now threatened with annihilation of the whole human race," Dr. Chisholm said.

"Ours is the first generation that has held veto power over the fate of mankind. It is no longer possible for one group of humanity to survive at the expense of another."

"Those days are gone forever, and selfish people don't like it at all. They would like to protect their own particular group regardless of what happens to the rest of the world."

Dr. Chisholm said Canadians and Americans are fortunate in having "nice aggressive ancestors who grabbed while the grabbing was good."

He said this had prompted many people abroad to ask why Canadians and Americans glorified the people who killed the most Indians in their movies and comic strips.

"They cannot understand why we make heroes of people who kill, and frankly I do not understand it myself."

Dr. Chisholm said the selfishness of national and racial groups could be attributed to the "attitudes" inculcated by parents and teachers.

"If we had been born in another kind of culture, or even in the house next door, we might have had an entirely different set of basic attitudes."

"But most people do not even consider changing the attitudes into which they have been born. The most they achieve are a few minor readjustments in some of their less important prejudices."

FRENCH LOVER AT WORK

Boeing 707, Esther
His Latest Idols

PARIS (AP) — Joseph Davis is a 34-year-old French laborer with two great loves — airplanes and actresses.

For years he has been trying to board transatlantic planes for the thrill of the trip and to hitch a ride toward Hollywood and his current flame.

Once he managed to stay hidden aboard an Air France Constellation until it reached Shannon Airport, in Ireland. He was on his way to see Rita Hayworth.

David's target now is the Boeing 707 jet.

"What a plane," he said as he Bourget Airport workers pulled him out of one Thursday.

"Who were you going to see this time?" inquired an airport guard.

"Esther Williams," Davis murmured. "I love her."

Ottawa
To Cut
Borrowing

OTTAWA (UPI) — Finance Minister Donald Fleming told the provinces today the federal government will try to help them find needed capital by cutting down its own borrowing.

Fleming said he thought the best way to help the provinces was to strengthen federal credit through borrowing less. He said bond prices dropped when the chartered banks sold federal bonds to get money for loans.

He said, however, the federal government needs only 300 million dollars between now and the end of the fiscal year, March 31, to meet maturing loans. He also reiterated that the federal government will try to cut its deficit in next spring's budget.

The minister denied there was lack of confidence in the government's financing. He said the "acid test" was the fact the public's holdings of federal government bonds increased by two billion dollars during the past year.

Fleming made his statements to newsmen at a recess in the federal provincial treasurers' conference. The conference ended this afternoon. There was no official communiqué.

He said he was not pessimistic about the present borrowing difficulties. He said lack of capital was general through the west, but that this had not interfered with economic expansion.

He added that the government will do all it can to create a favorable market for foreign investment.

Fleming also had some answers for provincial suggestions — on how the provinces could raise more money.

He turned down an Ontario request that the $20,000 ceiling on the value of Canada

Split Opens
In British Labor Party

LONDON (AP) — A split opened today in Britain's Labor party, battered by its election defeat last week at the hands of the Conservatives.

Moderates urged a swing to the right and rebel left-wing demanded a return to all-out socialism.

Douglas Jay, close adviser and personal friend of party leader Hugh Gaitskell, called nationalization a "damaging" party policy and suggested it be shelved.

"If Labor is ever going to win a future election," said Jay in a magazine article, "we must remove the first two fatal handicaps — the class image and the myth of nationalization."

Jay's warnings coincided with a demand in the left-wing magazine Tribune for full-scale socialism as the major party policy.

One of the editorial directors of the magazine is Jenny Lee, wife of Gaitskell's No. 1 assistant, Aneurin Bevan.

The magazine hammered at Gaitskell's election tactics and said: "Of course socialist nationalization is unpopular. How could it be otherwise when at each successive election Labor party leaders show that they regard it, not as a means to advance Britain's future, but as an outdated dogma they would love to discard?"

A SIGN OF SETTLEMENT?

New Offer
May End
Steel Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Steelworkers' Union today made a new strike-settlement proposal to the industry. The industry said it would be studied.

The proposal was advanced at the first session of new direct negotiations, undertaken at government prodding.

This meeting broke up after about an hour and 45 minutes. David J. McDonald, union president, confirmed at that time reports of a new union proposal. He declined to give its details.

The negotiators will meet again at 4.30 p.m. Saturday.

BOTH TRYING

R. Conrad Cooper, chief industry negotiator, said that meantime the union proposal would be studied.

"Both sides," Cooper said, "are endeavoring to reach an agreement to settle this issue by collective bargaining."

Although McDonald would not give details, well-placed sources said that the union

FEARLESS, PINT-SIZED
JUNGLE WAR HERO DIES

LONDON (Reuters) — Maj.-Gen. Thomas Wynford Rees, the fearless "little man" of the British Army who beat the Japanese at their own game in Burma's jungles, died here Thursday night.

The five-foot-three commander of the 19th Indian Division won a colorful place in military history for his part in the capture of Mandalay. The dynamic, fearless Welshman became a legend in the grim hand-to-hand fighting in Burma.

Rees won the Distinguished Service Order in the First World War for capturing an escaping Turkish battery in Syria single-handed.

NOT YET ANYWAY

We Won't Scrap
Jets—Pearkes

By PETE LOUDON

There are no "immediate" plans for replacement of Canada's nine CF-100 squadrons with other aircraft or some form of missile, Defence Minister George R. Pearkes said here today.

At the same time he noted, "the defence picture is continually changing and there can be nothing static."

The statement, made on his arrival at Empress Hotel this morning, did not appear to be an outright denial of speculation at Ottawa Thursday that the RCAF "front line" interceptors would be progressively scrapped and replaced by ground-to-air missiles.

The minister said, "We plan to keep up to date without undue demands on the people." He noted one of the CF100 squadrons is stationed at Comox, on Vancouver Island.

The defence minister, who will speak at Doncaster School at 8 tonight, scoffed at fears expressed here recently by national Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, that new Soviet nuclear-powered submarines have made Canada's new destroyer escorts obsolete.

The minister was to meet Mayor Percy Scurren and Chamber of Commerce representative, Conway Parrott at noon. They seek award of new shipping contracts here.

C of C Group
Finally Agrees

By JOHN MIKA

A proposed $3,000,000 building program will put a new library, science building, and power plant on Victoria College's Mount Tolmie site, with full support of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

Decision was taken today by a special chamber executive meeting, ending two years of sniping at the site by a chamber sub-committee.

Only rider attached to the support is a "strong request" that the college council change the institution's name to the University of British Columbia at Victoria (Victoria College).

"I am very pleased with the chamber's endorsement of our decision to start an immediate building program on the present site," said Judge J. B. Clearhugh, council chairman, after announcement of the decision.

Judge Clearhugh and five other members of the council addressed the chamber's 25-man executive at a private meeting in the Empress Hotel, reaffirming their decision to develop the Mount Tolmie site rather than immediately relocating the campus on the recently-purchased Gordon Head site.

The council members showed the chamber executive a 50-year plan "for a university at Victoria," which will see eventual development of both sites.

A public campaign for $1,500,000 will be launched after the Christmas holiday to add new buildings to the 50-acre Mount Tolmie campus immediately. The buildings will be needed for third and fourth-year enrolment in the 1961-62 college year.

B.C. Industry Should Go After
U.S. Contracts

VANCOUVER (CP) — Defence production minister O'Hurley said today industry should "get busy and go after" military contracts in the U.S.

He said in an interview B.C. industry is not taking enough advantage of the rapidly developing defence production sharing program between the U.S. and Canada.

The companies should go after sub-contracting work available in airplane factories and shipyards in Seattle.

ASKED TO LEAVE BAR

Flynn's Girl Friend
'Proves' She's 22

SEATTLE (UPI) — Miss Beverly Aaland, recent constant companion of the late actor Errol Flynn, today was asked to leave the cocktail lounge of the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport where she stopped en route to Los Angeles.

Miss Aaland was advised by a waiter of the Washington State law prohibiting the serving of anyone under the age of 21 in a cocktail lounge.

Digging through her purse, the young beauty broke into tears, saying, "a man can't even die anymore without..." and her voice trailed off. She then produced a passport showing a birth date of September, 1937.

The waiter who had taken the drink from her table, set it back down.

TV QUIZZES

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System today announced that it is eliminating all quiz shows on its television network.

CBS President Frank Stanton made the announcement in a speech prepared for the Radio Television News Directors Association meeting here.

Senator
Escapes
Gunmen

PARIS (Reuters) — A French senator flattened in the shadows of a Paris garden early today as machine-gun bullets ripped into his car at the end of a desperate flight through the silent streets of the capital.

The attack came shortly after a former government spokesman in Algeria warned that "killer commandos" have marked down certain government figures for assassination.

The senator, 42-year-old Francois Mitterand, a leftist Radical, said he was pursued by a carload of gunmen as he drove home from a restaurant in the Latin Quarter on the left bank of the Seine.

He dodged through a network of side streets and then roared at top speed down near-deserted Boulevard St. Michel, but the pursuing car continued to close the gap.

Mitterand, a former justice minister, braked hard and skidded into a street leading to the famed Observatory Gardens. He abandoned his car and vaulted a yard-high fence to take cover in the gardens in the shadows of some bushes.

FRANCE STALLS
SUMMIT MEET

LONDON (UPI) — French President Charles de Gaulle is stalling on an East-West summit conference, possibly until France explodes its first atomic bomb and becomes a nuclear power, with the other three great powers, an authoritative British source said today.

The United States and Britain have agreed that they should propose a summit meeting with Russia early in December and probably in Geneva, according to the informant. But France is holding up a joint western reply to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's summit overtures, he said.
